

Aeronautics Unit To Aid Outagamie In CAB Challenge

Says Misunderstanding Caused State's Apparent 'Indifference'

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The Wisconsin State Aeronautics Commission today agreed to give Outagamie County and Appleton all legal support possible in challenging a Civil Aeronautics Board decision to suspend North Central Airline service to the Outagamie County Airport on Jan. 25.

Members of the board told an Outagamie County delegation that its apparent indifference to the Outagamie County air service problem was based on a misunderstanding.

Several commission members insisted they believed that Outagamie County has preferred to "go it alone."

Recently the commission announced a decision to intervene before the CAB in the regional airport controversy in behalf of Clintonville and Ashland, two other Wisconsin cities that stand to lose North Central service if the CAB order sticks.

The state commission requested the CAB to grant a stay order, which would extend the effective date of the service cutoff as it applied to Clintonville and Ashland.

Asked Intervention
The action, which omitted Outagamie County, caused hard feelings among county and Appleton officials.

Mark Catlin Jr., an Appleton supervisor on the county board who is chairman of the county's airport committee, asked for state intervention in behalf of Outagamie, pointing out the board already was doing so for Ashland and Clintonville.

Calin was accompanied at the hearing by attorney Karl Baldwin, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce aviation laboratory.

discussing the impression that Outagamie County had a "go it alone attitude" and has never wanted state help in its airport activities.

Never Wanted Help
Commission members said Outagamie County apparently never wanted state help even a few years ago when they were choosing an airport site and during actual construction.

The commission decision to intervene before the CAB came on a 4 to 1 vote, with Arlyn West Plover, casting the only dissenting vote.

Citing his reason for a "no" vote, West said, "Now the

Hafez Puts Syria Under Martial Law

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — President Amin Hafez invoked martial law today, charging that Syrian "reactionaries in collaboration with imperialist allies abroad" were trying to hamper Syria's move to socialism.

Gen. Hafez set up a five-man military tribunal with powers, including the death sentence, to handle an assortment of crimes.

"The capitalists are powerful because of their money and their imperialist allies abroad," Hafez warned. "They have together Outagamie, pointing out the begun a propaganda campaign board already was doing so for Ashland and Clintonville."

The statement did not name the foreign powers with which the capitalists had allegedly collaborated.

Sukarno Walkout Stirs Speculations on Attack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Sukarno's announcement that Indonesia has walked out of the United Nations stirred speculation today that it foreshadows an all-out military attack on Malaysia.

These suspicions at U.N. headquarters were heightened by a letter from Malaysia to the Security Council charging that Indonesia is building up its forces along the Borneo frontier between Malaysia and Indonesia.

The Malaysian government said it would seek U.N. aid at once if Indonesia launches attacks more intensive than the sporadic guerrilla raids it has been making across the Borneo border and the small parties of infiltrators it has been landing on the Malaysian Peninsula.

Sukarno claims Malaysia is a device to preserve British colonialism in Southeast Asia and has pledged his nation will crush the young federation before next year.

An Indonesian source at the United Nations said a stepup in armed attacks on Malaysia was possible as a result of Indonesia's withdrawal from the organization.

"We are strong enough to crush Malaysia, a stooge of neo-colonialism, due to arms aid from the Soviet Union," he said. The Soviet Union has supplied Indonesia more than $1 billion in arms but deliveries declined in 1964. The Russians have advised the Indonesians not to quit the United Nations, but Indonesian sources in Moscow said the Soviet Foreign Ministry had informed their embassy that Kremlin's policy toward Indonesia.

Princess in House Near An Explosion

Police Arrest
20-Mile Chase

ABBEYLEIX, Ireland (AP) — Police arrested seven men at the end of a 20-mile car chase early today after an explosion that shattered windows in Princess Margaret's Irish holiday mansion.

The blast, from a shorted-out power station, put out the lights of Abbeyleix house where Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Viscountess and Viscountess de Vesci. No one was hurt.

Police jumped into action and quickly cornered a group of men in a wood near the house. A gasoline bomb was thrown.

As the bomb burst with a bright flash, the men — believed to be members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army — made a break. No one was hurt by the bomb.

Police sources estimated there were about 16 men in the group. They piled into cars and roared off, pursued by squad cars. Some 20 miles farther on, seven men were captured.

16 Men
Police had thrown a cordon round the 18th century mansion when the princess arrived Thursday with her husband.

The police said saboteurs about 11 p.m. threw a heavy wire across high tension cables near the De Vesci's mansion. The resulting short circuit exploded a transformer unit about three miles from the house. The town of Abbeyleix and the surrounding countryside were blacked out.

Belgium Denies Money Owed to United Nations

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgium claims it does not owe any money to the United Nations.

The Belgian government claims its case is different, even though it refuses to pay its assessment for the peacekeeping operation in the Congo.

The Belgian government claims the United Nations owes it money — for the Belgian military bases U.N. forces took over in the Congo in 1960.

The Belgian objections were voiced by the Socialist paper Le Peuple today and confirmed by a Foreign Ministry spokesman.

The U.N. secretariat claims that Belgium, by its refusal to pay Congo assessments, owed $3,451,058 as of Jan. 1 and should pay $201,461 to get off the list of two-year delinquents.

Russia Reported Back Of Turkey on Cyprus

Nikolai V. Podgorny, a member of the Kremlin's top men, reportedly has told the Turks they party's ruling Presidium, heads support Turkey's proposal for a federated Cyprus.

There has been no official announcement of this change in Soviet position, but Turkish lawmakers said their Russian counterparts assured them privately of support. They said the Russians told them it is obvious the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities cannot live together any longer.

Barked Greeks
The Soviet Union has backed the Greek Cypriot government of President Makarios solidly since the Greek and Turkish Cypriots started fighting in December 1963. The Greek Cypriot majority demands enosis — union of the island with Greece.

Late last year, Turkey abandoned its position that the only Cyprus solution was partition of the island into Greek and Turkish areas. Instead Turkey suggested that the warring communities live apart under some kind of cantonal or federal system, bound by some sort of national government but retaining a large amount of autonomy.

The Cyprus issue is to come World War II broke out.

U.S. in Middle
The United States was caught in the middle of the Greek-Turkish dispute over Cyprus, trying to keep the two NATO countries from going to war over the island. Because of this, the United States came under attack in both the Turkish press and Parliament, and the first anti-American demonstrations since the Cyprus issue is to come World War II broke out.

Rapid Buildup to Counter A Threat From Indonesia

SINGAPORE (AP) — British five were members of a small armed service spokesman confirmed today that Britain's military strength in the Malaysian area is at its highest peak since the end of the Korean War.

The spokesman were commenting on London reports that British and other Commonwealth troops in Malaysia now total 50,000.

A rapid buildup is under way to counter a threat from Indonesia which is reported massing forces in bases surrounding Malaysia.

70 Vessels

A navy spokesman said Far East ships number more than 70 and include such power-packed vessels as the aircraft carriers Eagle and Victorious, the command ship Bulwark, guided missile destroyers and fast-moving frigates.

Six warships, four of them minesweepers, are being taken out of mothballs and added to the fleet.

When the 44,000-ton Eagle steams into harbor, the fleet will be the "biggest British naval concentration in the world," the spokesman said.

A Royal Air Force representative said a number of new planes has been added to the force, and it now "has sufficient power to deter any aggression." He declined to give details but noted reports that Britain's V-bombers in England have been put on standby orders.

There are also V-bombers — possibly a dozen — known to be stationed in Malaysia, mostly on the northwestern coast of the Malaysian mainland.

Purchase of Power Generator Vetoed by Menasha Mayor

Kline Overrides Council Okay For $52,000 Emergency Facility

MENASHA — Mayor John Kline has vetoed the common council's approval of the purchase of a $52,000 standby diesel generator for the electric utility's steam generating plant.

In a statement issued today to the council, Mayor Kline said "in the best interest of the citizens of Menasha, I feel obligated to veto the action taken by the Menasha Council, Tuesday, Jan. 5 pertaining to the purchase of a $52,000 diesel engine for emergency purposes. The reasons follow:

"We have emergency power available now in case of power failure. It is possible that we may never have to spend this $52,000. Presently we have better protection than in the past if we need power for industry, business and residential purposes. This must be admitted by all concerned.

"I earnestly hope that the Council will reconsider the action it took Jan. 5 relative to the purchase of a diesel engine."

The council had approved the purchase by a 9-2 vote Tuesday with Aldermen Richard Hansen and Robert Winarski casting the dissenting votes. Ald. Morgan Eckrich was absent. A three-fourths majority would be needed to override the mayor's veto.

If the council would override the mayor's veto, the Water and Light Commission would have to advertise for bids on the generator. Thursday had been the deadline for acceptance or rejection of the low recommended bid of Kayser Engine Sales of Green Bay.

In September Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. entered into an agreement with the city to provide this emergency starting power for 75 cents a month. The agreement expires in March.

Mayor Klein had urged the council to delay action in purchasing the generator until the issue of selling the electric utility is settled. Wisconsin Michigan has offered $5.4 million for the utility which has a book value of $4.9 million.

Special Meeting
Wisconsin Michigan has offered to extend the agreement for the emergency service until the issue is settled, and if the city decides not to sell the utility, to continue the service until they can readvertise for bids on the diesel and have the diesel installed.

A special meeting between the council and Water and Light Utilities commission has been called for Tuesday night to allow the commission an opportunity to present reasons the utility should be retained by the city.

Judge James W. Byers set Jan. 14 for the filing of the information containing the armed robbery counts against Gordon James, 26, Milwaukee and Ralph T. Gruender, 31, Delafield.

A third man charged in the robbery, Richard Wilson Holliday, 32, Milwaukee, was released Thursday morning after charges against him were dropped for lack of sufficient evidence. Dane County authorities are expected to pick Holliday up today from the Brown County jail to take him to Madison where warrants await him on charges of armed robbery, armed burglary, auto theft and kidnapping.

Positive Identification
Dist. Atty. Robert Rahr Flatley called eight Montgomery Ward employees to the stand during the preliminary hearing to tell of the events of the morning of Dec. 7 when two men held more than 20 employees at bay while they took cash, checks and merchandise from the store.

All the witnesses made positive identifications of James and Gruender as the men who were in the store.

James K. Moe, the assistant manager of the store at 421 Main St., told the court he arrived at work about 7:30 a.m. and entered the store through a rear door at the loading dock. The first thing Moe noticed was six employees, sitting in the shipping dock office with their hands taped in a praying position. He was then confronted by a Negro wearing sun glasses and holding a gun who told him "Get back in the room or I'll blow your head off."

Moe then said he was ordered from the office by a white man who he identified as Gruender, and told to open the store safe. The assistant manager went to the store office with Gruender and attempted to open the main safe, but could not. He then opened a second safe containing bags of rolled coins. When Gruender took Moe back to the shipping dock, James was intercepting each employee as he entered, and herded him to the dock office.

Milton Bergstrand, the store manager, took the stand and told the court that he encountered the Negro with a gun when he entered. Gruender took the manager where he opened the main safe containing cash and check from the cash register receipts from the day before.

Coin Rolls Marked
Bergstrand estimated that $15,550 was taken from the store including $9,500 in cash, $4,300 in checks, and $1,750 in merchandise including guns and clothing. He said the coins taken in the robbery were wrapped in paper rolls, some of which were marked.

Following the testimony of the store managers, six other employees took the stand to corroborate the identifications of James and Gruender as the men in the store.

A third man was reportedly involved in the robbery, but he stayed outside in a car during most of the action, and made only one brief appearance in the store. None of the employees were able to make a positive identification of this man.

James and Gruender are being held under $15,000 bond in the Brown County jail pending trial.

Ordinances Sent Back to Committee

Appleton Aldermen Ask for More Time To Study Changes

The city council balked at approving several chapters of recodified ordinances Wednesday night and referred them back to committee for more review.

Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th) led the list of aldermen who said they wanted more time to study the proposed updating and changes in the city's old ordinances.

A Madison law firm has been contracted by the city to do the recodification work. It has been working on the project for more than a year.

Printing Delayed
However, final printing of the recodifications has been delayed by the failure of the council to give final approval to changes.

It was learned that representatives of the building construction industry contacted several aldermen in advance of last night's meeting and expressed dissatisfaction with the proposed new building and housing code, which among other things, increases permit fees.

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings (7th), who as a member of the welfare ordinance committee has spent considerable time in researching outmoded ordinances, registered strong objection to any further delay.

December 1961
"We have been working on the recodification since December of 1961," Mrs. Stillings said.

Mrs. Stillings said a group of citizens volunteered to serve on an advisory committee and came up with recommendations for a department of inspection, plus new building codes.

A representative of the construction industry served on the committee, which held many meetings during 1964 to update Appleton's codes.

Decent Ordinances
"All we are trying to do is give our department heads some decent ordinances to enforce," Mrs. Stillings said. She noted the city lost a court case earlier in the day when the judge ruled the city's ordinance was "vague, indefinite and lacking in certainty."

Chapters of the new ordinances referred back to committee dealt with the proposed department of inspection, building and housing code, plumbing, electrical, fire prevention and zoning codes, and heating, ventilation and air conditioning requirements and regulations.

Smith, of the Menasha Corp., announced that Kenyon C. Kimball, president of the First National Bank of Menasha, will serve as associate chairman of the special gifts division. Accepting posts as vice chairmen are Sumner Parker of the Kimberly-Clark Corp. labor relations department, and James Webb, president of the William Krueger Co.

More than 150 persons will participate in the special gifts campaign which will begin in advance of the general public solicitation due to start in early February.

Gold mining stocks rose on balance in further response to higher prices for gold in the world market and renewed emphasis on the problem of the outflow from U.S. gold holdings.

Cigarette stocks took a string of moderate losses in anticipation of a new report on smoking and health Monday.

The trend was a little lower among mail order-retail stocks, chemicals and oils, but a number of issues in these groups were unchanged.

Appleton Sets $15 Million Building Mark

an ever-increasing concentration of office buildings and commercial outlets in the Wisconsin Avenue business district.

Rapid Growth

Commercial construction, along with residential, has also picked up considerably on the city's rapidly growing south side.

An analysis of Appleton's building trends is being made by a St. Louis consulting firm, which is preparing the city's comprehensive plan, sometimes referred to in planning circles as "the city's bible for the future."

Appleton's monthly building summary for 1964:

January	$ 584,813
February	286,999
March	669,935
April	1,068,115
May	1,333,549
June	3,473,158
July	2,881,873
August	860,245
September	811,685
October	1,632,146
November	1,084,580
December	359,390

Total $15,046,494

The two major construction projects undertaken in Appleton in 1964 included permits for additions to the Aid Association for Lutherans and St. Elizabeth Hospital, each for $2.5 million.

There also was considerable school, church, university, industrial and apartment construction in the city. Last year also went down in the books as a good year for home building.

Future Promising

Magnette says the future continues to look promising for Appleton construction-wise during 1965.

"The Fox Valley area has been bucking state and national trends when it comes to new building volume," Magnette said, "and this should continue."

Magnette said he talked with some residential contractors who reported that considerable activity is scheduled this spring. "I don't have any idea of how industrial and commercial building will go because these projects usually hang fire until the last minute and then are announced," Magnette commented.

He predicted that during 1965 new construction in Appleton "should equal or exceed the past record year."

club and meeting rooms and a chapel.

Except for the rifle and archery ranges, the additions provide expansion of things available in the initial phase.

Warrick said. It is hoped the rifle and archery ranges in the west addition basement can be utilized in a partially completed state, he said.

The financial situation of the construction project was summarized in a progress report by C. Andree Pertain, president of the YMCA board of directors. It showed that cash, securities and pledges on hand total $1,564,000; reserves held by cafeteria and other committees for new equipment total $22,000, and interest on certificates of deposit through May total $20,000, for a grand total of $1,606,000.

The total building project, when completed, will cost about $2,250,000, Warrick said. A total of $359,380 has been paid to date for land acquisition, fund raising expenses and demolition of buildings on the site. Most of this amount was raised before the formal building fund campaign, which raised $1.5 million, was held.

This brings the total cost of the construction project to date, including the shell of the west addition, to $2,029,380. Completion of the additions will be added to this.

Jack MacDonald, co-chairman of the house-to-house campaign; David Brooker, public relations chairman, and E. Patrick Toal, general consultant and adviser.

The hospital auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Jesse Fissel, has given hundreds of hours in telephone, office work and preparing solicitors' materials.

Hayes said industry and business have contributed substantially in service and materials, in addition to money, in recognition of the need for expanded medical services in the Fox Valley area.

"We are hopeful," he said, "that the general public, too, will see its responsibility and do something about it. Pledges can be spread over five years and contributors can set up any type of payment plan convenient to them."

"If people are willing to say, 'Sure, I'll give 25 cents a week,' the goal will be reached. It isn't much, but multiplied by thousands of families it spells the kind of money we need," he said.

Received Endorsement

The expansion project has received the endorsement of the Outagamie County Medical and Dental societies. Drive workers have been recruited from among those of many religious faiths in the Fox Cities and nearby urban and rural areas.

The drive has been set up on an area and ward basis. In Appleton, Roy Rickert is chairman of Area 1 and 16th Ward, and his ward captains are Ronald Geiger, 19th; Gerald Romensko, 18th; Donald Genge and Ted Moder, 17th; Clyde Stephenson, 15th, and Lyman B. Clark and George Karras, 14th.

Coroner's Jury Asks Youth be Held for Murder

CHICAGO (AP) — A Cook County coroner's jury recommended Thursday that Harrison Crouse, 18, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering his parents and sister.

In their verdict, the jurors held that the victims came to their deaths as the result of bullets from "a rifle held in hands of Harrison Crouse."

The University of Illinois student already had been charged with slaying his father, Morris, 48; his mother, Norma, 48, and his sister, Sally, 16, in their home in suburban Wilmette Saturday.

The inquest session had these highlights:

The slender youth declined to testify.

Major Winter Storms Shaping In Plains Area

Gulf, Arctic Air Collision Should Set Off Blizzards

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain and snow hit wide areas of the nation today and a major winter storm appeared shaping up in the central Plains.

The Weather Bureau reported a clash of record breaking warm moist air from the Gulf of Mexico and arctic air moving southward through the Dakotas will set off blizzard conditions.

Readings were in the 60s and 70s in parts of Kansas and Missouri Thursday as unseasonably mild weather covered the central Plains and the middle Mississippi Valley. Record high marks for Jan. 7 were reported in several cities.

Arctic-Tropic Range

The Weather Bureau said the temperature contrast between Kansas and North Dakota was similar to one normally reported between the tropics and the arctic. The temperature range early today between Manhattan, Kan., and Dickinson, N.D., a distance of 600 miles, was 70 degrees. It was 63 in Manhattan and 7 below zero in Dickinson.

Cold wave warnings were issued for sections of the Plains from eastern Wyoming across Nebraska and South Dakota eastward through western and northern Minnesota, northwestern Iowa and into western and central sections of Kansas.

Snow blanketed the southern Rockies. Two inches of snow fell in the Flagstaff, Ariz., area and Craig, Colo. Heavy snow was indicated across the mountain areas of New Mexico.

Drizzle Rain

Showers broke out in advance of the mild air during the night. Drizzle and light rain dampened the upper Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes region. Freezing drizzle pelted the cold sections of Minnesota and the Dakotas. Rain and snow fell in scattered sections in eastern areas.

In the Far West snow flurries flecked areas in the Pacific Northwest but dry weather prevailed across most of the storm and flood stricken areas in California and Oregon.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 19 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont., to 89 at Key West, Fla.

than former machines which were also completely safe by all standards.

An image intensifier, an electronic device to increase the intensity, brightness and clarity of fluoroscopic images, will be one of the pieces installed this spring. With this unit the radiologist may view images produced by the fluoroscope directly or on a television screen in a normally lighted room. Present equipment requires a darkened room for viewing.

With the intensifier, clearer still pictures of specific areas of the fluoroscope image may be obtained using the 70 millimeter camera attachment for the unit, with less radiation, at a speed of one exposure per second.

An x-ray unit designed to clearly picture a thin layer inside of the patient's body by deliberately blurring the image of the tissue above and below the layer being explored, called a tomograph, will be a useful unit in the battery of new tools for diagnosis. Blurring or obscuring is obtained by the x-ray tube and x-ray plate moving in opposite directions at exactly the same time in circular and multicircular patterns. This produces an effect similar to focusing a camera on a speeding automobile thus blurring the background while taking a sharp focus picture of the car.

Tour Hospitals
Several x-ray pictures of the same view may be taken rapidly in succession with one of the instruments available when Memorial's new radiology department begins operations in May. This will be especially useful in studies of circulatory problems when used with a technique in which a dye, that can be traced on the x-ray and picture, is injected into the patient.

Before the new units were selected, diagnostic radiology installations in hospitals in Green Bay, Milwaukee, Waukegan, Chicago and Evanston were visited and inspected by members of the radiologist staff and other hospital personnel. Dr. L. Thomas Plouff and Dr. Ralph O. Kennedy are the radiologists for Memorial Hospital.

The new x-ray section and lab, representing an overall investment of more than $500,000, initiates a long range expansion plan. Both the new lab and the new radiology department are being financed out of a combination of special gifts and operation funds.

Hospital authorities said Stine was accidentally wounded while slaughtering cattle at his farm shortly before 11 a.m. Stine apparently put a revolver in his hip pocket; the revolver fell through his pocket, hit the ground and discharged.

Selected, diagnostic radiology installations in hospitals in Green Bay, Milwaukee, Waukegan, Chicago and Evanston were visited and inspected by members of the radiologist staff and other hospital personnel. Dr. L. Thomas Plouff and Dr. Ralph O. Kennedy are the radiologists for Memorial Hospital.

The LaSalle String Quartet, resident ensemble at the University of Cincinnati, will present the third of this season's Lawrence Chamber Music series concerts at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 21. The event is planned for Harper Hall at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

The quartet, making its second chamber series appearance here, was formed in 1946 at the Juilliard School of Music, New York. Members are: Walter Levin and Henry Meyer, first and second violinists; Peter Kamnitzer, violist; and Jack Kirshtein, cellist. All have been with the group since its founding.

Juilliard in 1946 gave no degree in quartet, but as the four young musicians became more and more absorbed in their ensemble, they persuaded the school to establish such a degree. Appropriately, in 1949, they became its first recipients.

Began in Berlin Upon graduation, the LaSalle became quartet-in-residence at Colorado College, Colorado Springs. Four years later the group accepted a similar appointment at the College-Conservatory of Music, University of Cincinnati, where it remains today. Here the quartet presents an annual series of concerts, teaches performance technique, interpretation and chamber music literature, and gives workshops and lecture-demonstrations.

Levin, first violinist, began his studies in Berlin and continued, under Rudolph Bergman, in Tel Aviv. At age 16 he formed a string quartet and toured extensively in the Near East. He has a degree from the University of London in addition to Juilliard. His Juilliard teacher was Ivan Galamian.

Meyer, second violinist, made his solo debut with the Dresden Philharmonic at the age of 10. After graduating from Prague's Academy of Music, he became a member of the Prague String Quartet. In Paris, he studied with Rene Benedetti and Georges Enesco, and won the Milstein Presentation Violin. He came to Juilliard as a graduate scholarship student.

Kamnitzer, violist, graduated from the Manhattan School of Music, New York, and continued his studies at Juilliard under Milton Katims. He was first violist and a member of the string quartet of the San Antonio Symphony for three seasons, and has played with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra. He has also toured as first violist with the Robert Shaw Chorale.

Holds Columbia Degree Kirshtein, cellist, studied under Felix Salmond at Juilliard, and with D. C. Dounis and Leonard Rose. He was assistant principal cellist of the Buffalo Philharmonic under William Steinberg, and solo cellist of the Mozart Orchestra. He holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from Columbia University.

The LaSalle Quartet's program is part of its annual U.S. tour. The group also makes regular visits to Europe where its debut concert came in 1954. That season it played in the Netherlands, England, Switzerland, Greece, Denmark and Israel. Two years later it played over 100 concerts in Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, Fiji, Indonesia, India, Scandinavia, and the countries of Western Europe.

Since then the quartet has played in Europe in 1958, 1961, 1962, 1963 and 1964. Last season it became the first American string quartet to perform in Bulgaria. Its eighth international tour, to cover Europe and Scandinavia, is planned for this spring.

Tickets for the quartet's appearance go on sale Monday at Lawrence University box office, 115 N. Park Ave. Office hours are from noon to 6 p.m. weekdays.

Soap Serials Serve as Substitute For Vanished Family Togetherness

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — A cold, tall tales that shuffled over town with a widowed in-law who has just finished writing a novel.

New Daytime Serial The list was lengthened by the old when the novelist's family is beginning to suspect that she has written about them and their tangled lives.

Of course, there is much more on which future story lines will be hung — a snobbish, ambitious grandmother, a selfish girl spinning a brilliant marriage, for a theatrical career, sibling rivalries, a father in financial difficulties — Ah me! there are enough seeds planted to keep the plots growing for a couple of years.

By remarkable coincidence, closest thing a woman has today ABC's "Flame in the Wind" is to the bygone back fence and about a family living in a small town with a widowed in-law who has just finished writing a novel.

The series was only two days old when the novelist's family is beginning to suspect that she has written about them and their tangled lives.

Tom Kennedy Likes His Job As Game Host

Keeps Wardrobe of Sports Jackets Handy For Quick Change

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Kennedy, as a large number of women and some men household with head colds know, is the nice-looking, pleasant-mannered fellow who each afternoon presides over an NBC program during which studio contestants and celebrity guests team up to play a word game.

Kennedy likes his job, enjoys riding herd on the players and hopes "You Don't Say" will go on forever.

"Before I got this show," he confessed, "I made quite a good living making bad pilots — trying out game shows that never went anywhere. I think I made a bad pilot for every producer in Hollywood."

He worked his way into the specialized field from an announcer's job and doing commercials.

Change of Jackets Now he puts in a couple of very busy days a week taping the five day output of "You Don't Say." His preparation so was the studio audience — consists of making certain his sports jackets are wrinkle-free, stage for a show. She was wearing a sequin top, very elaborate, and a pair of well-worn blue jeans, Kennedy said.

To Your Good Health

Getting Mental Patient To Cooperate Is Best

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: How can an adult member of our family be made to understand that he is in need of physical or mental help?

He says that others are using

doors with rags "to keep out the fumes," and has all the windows open no matter what the temperature.

Is he using this dope theory to hide some physical ailment, or do you think he really believes what he says — WORRIED

There is hardly room for doubt. The man's trouble is mental. Even if he were using the dope theory to hide some physical ailment, which I decidedly doubt, his actions would still be far from normal.

There are plenty of cases of mental illness in which the patient realizes that he needs help. There are more cases, however, in which the patient insists that he is all right and everybody else is wrong.

In such instances there is no point in waiting for the patient to consult a doctor. He won't. Arguments are futile. The only course likely to succeed is to consult your family doctor, and let him help you take such measures as will permit the man to be examined psychiatrically whether he agrees or not.

There are some instances, I might add, in which a person, when told that he has to be examined, finally will go quietly rather than have hospital attendants or the police escort him.

Getting the patient to cooperate is better for him and for everybody else than doing it by force.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me your booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids. Enclosed are the required 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Could you also tell me about a rectum that has fallen forward into the vagina? Is surgery the only cure? I am 33 and have three children. — MRS. J.L.

This condition is called rectocele and is the consequence of the supportive tissues being weakened in some way. Childbirth is the most frequent cause.

Let's be frank Surgery is the only cure. At the same time, this is a happy thought: Surgical correction is very dependable. You can confidently expect that after the operation, your troubles will be over.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does climate have any bearing on emphysema? Would a dry, or high area be better, or near the ocean with salt sea air? — MRS. H.K.

Climate doesn't have much effect in most cases. Extremely high altitudes might increase the difficulty a little, but not much. Otherwise, a dry or salt air or warm air problem next year at election or cold air is of scant significance.

County Board Decision Set National Precedent

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme Court, which set a U.S. precedent last year in reapportioning the Legislature, appears to have established another national pattern in ordering realignment of county boards on a "one man, one vote" principle.

The high court ruled in a unanimous decision Tuesday that an 1849 law under which county board members are elected violates federal and state constitutions because it denies equal representation.

Received Requests The Legislature was given until next Nov. 1 to change the law, under which a supervisor is elected from each town, village and city ward. The ruling did not affect Milwaukee and Menominee counties, which are covered by different statutes.

The decision was hailed by a nationally known expert on reapportionment.

"I've been writing to people all over the country, telling them this is the case they've been waiting for—go get it," said William J. D. Boyd, senior associate for the National Municipal League in New York.

"Your court will be very surprised at the number of rebellious moments of humor — but not many."

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — Two of the Jack Paar Program's more inventive visitors — Mike Nichols and Elaine May — return with the reapportionment suit was aimed, said "we are going from one extreme to another."

9-10 (Channel 2) — Slattery's time you get the figures People finally gets around to compiled, you are already out showing an episode that was pre-date. There must be a certain leeway up to 10 or 15 per cent.

"Question: What's a Requisition?" ## Bar Operator Has Threatened Test Of Civil Rights Act

GARDEN CITY, Ga. (AP) — A bar operator has threatened to bring action under the 1964 Civil Rights Act to halt what he terms discrimination against women.

John Iocovozzi made the threat Wednesday after Solicitor General Andrew J. Ryan refused to allow him to employ women as bartenders.

Several women were reported ready to apply today for bartender's licenses, but Ryan says they will not be issued because state law forbids women from mixing or pouring drinks.

Iocovozzi maintains the law is discriminatory against women. The issue is new in this suburb of Savannah because bars were only okayed in a referendum Dec. 7 under a 1964 legislative law which legalized mixed drinks in Georgia for the first time since prohibition.

Cuban Women Being Trained as 'Cowgirls'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — More than 3,000 women in Cuba are studying to be "cow girls" and do other farm work, Havana Radio says.

The broadcast, heard in Miami, added that farm courses sponsored by the Federation of Cuban Women stress chores such as tending livestock, which women can perform and free men for harder tasks.

Vital Area

Question Marks Hang Over U.S. and Russia

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — In one of the most vital areas of all — foreign affairs — the new year starts off with question marks dangling over the United States and the Soviet Union.

There's no doubt about where President Johnson stands on domestic affairs. He has talked about them a thousand times and laid down a huge program in his State of the Union message to Congress.

But still unknown, after his more than 13 months in office, is how he will perform and what he will propose in the foreign field.

This is also true of Nikita Khrushchev's successors, the new Soviet leaders, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party chief. In his message, Johnson invited them over here.

Net Result

Johnson consistently has spoken so mildly, and so little, about foreign problems that his restraint had to be deliberate, although this is in keeping with his technique of creating no unneeded conflicts or antagonisms.

The net result is the picture of a man who didn't want to get involved or commit himself in dilemmas overseas until he had straightened out things at home. This paid off well, as the election showed.

Ever since they bounced Khrushchev out of his job as premier last fall and out of the Russian picture altogether, the new Kremlin leaders have played about as mum as Johnson.

They haven't shown any more fresh initiative or imagination in foreign policy than Johnson. At this point the West can hardly pretend to say what direction they will take or even how they are to get along with.

Sounded Dull

They sounded more than ungracious — they sounded dull, hackneyed, unsure and negative — in their reaction to Johnson's invitation and the mild tone of his message on communism in general.

They didn't say anything directly, but they did indirectly, through their government-controlled press and radio which practically accused Johnson of double-talk when he talked of peace and talked of staying in Viet Nam.

Various reasons could be conjured up to explain this criticism — for example, an attempt to chill any desire on the part of their European satellites for friendlier relations with this country. All might have some validity.

SEATO Ministers To Meet May 3

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The annual conference of the Council of Ministers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization will be held in London May 3-5, the defense organization announced.

The council is composed of the foreign ministers of the eight SEATO members — the United States, Britain, Australia, France, New Zealand, Thailand, the Philippines and Pakistan.

Military advisers of SEATO will hold a meeting April 29-30 in London.

Pearson to Visit President Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada will visit President Johnson Jan. 15, the White House announced.

Press Secretary George E. Reedy described it as an informal visit and discussion.

Pearson has been vacationing in Florida and will stop off on his way home, Reedy said.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Jan. 8, the eighth day of 1965. There are 357 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1815, the Battle of New Orleans was fought. Gen. Andrew Jackson's entrenched riflemen turned back a force of British regulars, saving the Mississippi Valley from invasion.

On this date

In 1679, the French explorer La Salle reached Niagara Falls.

In 1798, the 11th Amendment to the Constitution was proclaimed, preventing lawsuits against the federal government.

In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson issued his 14 points for establishing peace after World War I.

In 1923, France started her military occupation of the Ruhr Valley.

In 1943, U.S. bombers attacked the Tunisian port of Bizerte.

Ten years ago — The New York State Council of Churches opened a drive against proposals to legalize bingo games.

Five years ago — Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassem, in a speech in Baghdad, accused the United Arab Republic of dictatorial oppression in Syria.

One year ago — President Johnson, in his State of the Union message, called for a program to end poverty and discrimination at home and a world cutback in production of materials for nuclear weapons.

Contour Measuring Tape Is Good Tool Chest Item

BY CAPPY DICK

The measuring device which is today's fun-project for young readers to undertake will be handy for Dad, Mother and in school. It enables anyone to measure the contours of almost any irregular shape.

Easy to make, the device is simply a regular fabric tape measure with lead wire attached to it. The wire will enable you to "bend" the tape measure to contours (Figure 4) so that they may be measured accurately.

A spool of lead wire and a tape measure are shown in Figure 1. The lead wire can be bought in a hardware store.

As in Figure 2 sew the wire to the center of the tape measure, first filling small notches in the lead (Figure 3) so the thread will grip the wire and fabric.

When not in use the tape go to Paris Jan. 19-20 for talks with French President Charles de Gaulle. The federal government will be announced.

Namath Will Start For Southerners in Senior Bowl Game

Alabama Standout Has Been Impressive in Practice Sessions

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Joe Willie Namath and his $400,000 team have wrecked a lot of football teams, but they've never used anybody the way they will bring the New York Jets during the Senior Bowl game Saturday.

The Jets, who signed the Pennsylvania Hungarian last week in Miami for the grand fee of about $400,000 aren't overjoyed that Namath will be playing in the Senior Bowl since he is a bad knee.

But Jet Coach Weeb Ewbank has given the go-ahead and Namath, who never ceases to amaze anyone and everyone with what he can do with the skin, has jumped into the starting spot for the South.

Coach Tom Landry had planned for a week to start Steve Tensi of Florida State, but Namath showed so much in practice, even though playing on a knee that limits his movement, that Landry said he would go with Joe Willie.

Ewbank won't be able to make it to the game but he has sent offensive coach Cleve Rush to Mobile to protect the Jets' biggest investment since renting the stadium.

Enjoy the Game

"We'll worry about the knee, sure, but we haven't given anyone any special instruction on what to do with Joe," Rush said. "I'm really just down to enjoy the ball game."

Rush, who spends most of his time working with the backs and receivers for the Jets, added "I'm also here to give Joe any help that I can and answer any questions that he has."

But admit it or not, Rush definitely will be the most nervous spectator among the sellout crowd of 40,605 that will jam the stadium to watch the game.

The Senior Bowl will be televised nationally by the National Broadcasting Co. and will get under way at 1 p.m., CST. The weather forecast calls for showers Saturday morning, but clear skies at game time.

The Senior Bowl marks the professional debut of the players of both teams each year. Members of the winning team will receive $900 each, while the losers will pick up checks for $700.

Before it was announced Thursday by Landry that Namath would start, the oddsmakers installed the South a conservative six-point choice. Namath's status most likely will send the odds up a little more.

The rules under which the game will be played are a mixture of college and professional regulations. The only big change will be a rule permitting the team trailing by as much as nine points to receive the kickoff after each touchdown, regardless of who scores.

Best Ever

Many people consider this the best South squad ever assembled, but the North defensive line is expected to limit the Rebels in what they can do with the football.

Coach George Wilson will start a Yankee defensive forward wall that averages 237 pounds per man. That much beef staring the South in the eye means that Namath and Tensi will give their passing arms plenty of exercise, since Landry says it would be folly to try to run against such size as that.

Before leaving for New Orleans and a speaking engagement, Parseghian said "We've had a wonderful season and the new contract came out as a mutual thing — an expression of confidence between the school and the coach.

As far as recruiting for 1965, we have a pretty good selling point going for us on the basis of the 1964 record. We've found, simply, that the youngsters are much more receptive to us than they were just a year ago.

Our 1965 job is replacing the cog as quarterback John Harbaugh and end Jack Snow. In defense we are much better.

We have eight players of proven ability returning and it's a pretty good start."

Fox Lutheran Will Battle Concordia '5' in Milwaukee

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Fox Valley Lutheran High School will travel to Milwaukee Saturday night looking for an upset over the Concordia Falcons. It will be the third straight road trip for the Foxes who now have a 5-3 record.

FVL began its series with the Falcons in 1960. Concordia won the series in 1960-61 with a clean sweep, but FVL came back the next year with two wins. In 1962-63, Concordia again won both games to take a lead in the series. Last year, Fox Lutheran won the first game in a thriller on the FVL floor, 61-58. In the return match at Concordia, the Falcons overpowered the Foxes, 74-52. Fox Lutheran still had a chance to win another one as they met the Falcons in the championship game of the Wisconsin Lutheran Invitational Tournament at Lakeside, but Concordia could do nothing wrong that night and FVL was crushed, 85-64.

The Chuck Finkle-coached Falcons will enter the game with lettermen at all the starting posts. Jim Martin (6-3) who was a key man in leading Concordia to its 15-6 record last year will back and starting at one forward. Martin hit for 62 points in the three games against FVL last year. Jon Stradtman (5-9) will be at the other forward spot. John Neuberger (6-2) who tallied 33 points against FVL last year will start at center. The guards will be Bill Liekweg (5-10) and Mike Tieman (5-10) junior who will start for the injured Tim Parsch.

Concordia's record stands at 5-1 with wins over Notre Dame, Milwaukee Lutheran, Lakeside Lutheran, Oak Creek, and Northwestern. Its only loss came at the hands of Racine Lutheran. FVL also beat Northwestern. The game will be Concordia's second in two days, as the Falcons meet Milwaukee University School tonight.

FVL's starting line-up will consist of Tom Ehlike at Center, Brian Erickson and Mark Dahlke at the forwards and Lee Kiepke and Ron Vandertie at the guards.

Willie Davis Gets Chance to See Tarkenton 'Up Close'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Did those big ends bother you in the championship game?"

The question went to Baltimore's quarterback, Johnny Unitas, in reference to the recent Colt-Cleveland Brown championship game in the National Football League.

"The only guy that bothered me was Frank Ryan," replied Unitas, holding back a grin.

Ryan, of course, was the winning quarterback that day in Cleveland.

The rival quarterbacks and teammates, plus coaches, were guests at a luncheon heralding Sunday's East-West Pro Bowl.

Baltimore's All Pro defensive end Gino Marchetti made it official—again. He announced his retirement. Giant Gino made the same announcement at the same social affair a year ago.

Doesn't Need Money

"This time it's different. I don't need the money any more," said Marchetti, who with Alan (The Horse) Ameche, a former teammate, owns a chain of hamburger havens in the Baltimore area.

Defensive end Willie Davis of Green Bay noted that he had been talking with Minnesota's famed scrambling quarterback, Fran Tarkenton, Unitas' alternate Sunday.

"It was the first time I ever saw him up close," cracked Willie.

"How many times did your coach, Dutch Van Brocklin, lose his temper this year, Fran?"

"Oh, none!" said Tarkenton in mock dismay.

Cleveland's Bill Glass was asked his size.

"Six-six, 255," replied Glass.

"And you, Roger Brown of Detroit?"

"Five-10, 185," answered the 6-5, 296-pound Roger.

Taylor Joins In

"I thought Jimmy Taylor deserved the trophy. Of course I'm not going to give it to him," said Unitas. The Green Bay full-back star, sitting nearby, joined in the laughter.

West Coach Don Shula, whose Colts were wrecked by Cleveland's Frank Ryan and Jim Brown in the title game, told his horror story.

"I got on the plane to come out here. I settled back and thought I'd forget football for awhile," Shula related.

Premature Signings by Pro Grid Leagues Will Be Halted, Says Official

NCAA's Corbett to Meet With Rozelle in Chicago Tonight

BY KESLO STURGEON

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association must, can and will stop the professional football league from signing players before they complete their eligibility, a high ranking official of the group said today.

Jim Corbett, athletic director at Louisiana State University and powerful chairman of the College-Professional Relations Committee, said the pros are in real trouble with the association regardless of whether they will admit it.

Corbett told The Associated Press in an interview as he was passing through Mobile that he would meet with Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, tonight in Chicago to discuss the situation.

"I guarantee you when the College-Professional Committee meets Sunday morning in Chicago, we're going to come up with a remedy to this situation," Corbett said. "We can put a stop to this practice and we're going to."

Corbett, a usually calm gentleman, obviously was miffed with the recent signing of several college football players — including Mickey Cox of LSU — before they had completed their eligibility.

Wilson Case

The battle between the pros and the NCAA broke out two weeks ago when it was revealed that Jim Wilson, Georgia's All-America tackle, had signed a contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League last August and then played the past season at Georgia even though he was ineligible. Neither Wilson nor the Patriots bothered to tell the school about it.

The argument reached the boiling point the day before the Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville when it was disclosed that four members of the Philadelphian (AP) — Bob Odell, the new head football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, where he was an All-America back in 1943, says one of his first tasks will be an "aggressive recruiting program."

Odell, who planned to come here today for the contract formalities, said Thursday at Lewisburg, Pa., that he had accepted the head coaching post after seven seasons at Bucknell University, which he built into an Eastern small-college football power.

Contract terms were not immediately disclosed.

The 42-year old Odell, former assistant at Yale, Temple and Wisconsin, said his first task would be to acquaint himself with the situation at Penn, to get organized with his staff, and then "start recruiting."

Odell will inherit a reportedly powerful freshman team recruited by John Stiegman, who was dismissed last Dec. 6 after five consecutive losing seasons.

Terror Mat Team Duels Maniwoc

The Appleton High School wrestling team, off to an encouraging, 3-3 start in its inaugural season, plays host to a strong Maniwoc team at 7 p.m. today in the AHS gym.

Maniwoc, one of the Fox River Valley Conference's best, recently handed Fond du Lac its first defeat.

The Ade Dillon-coached Terrors have split even with Shawano and have beaten Kimberly and Green Bay Southwest while losing to Fondy and to Hortonville.

Celtics Record 10th Straight

Sam Jones Nets 33 in 112-104 Win Over Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Boston Celtics, who have never looked better in National Basketball Association play than they do this season, take a 10-game winning streak to San Francisco tonight.

Ten is a significant number also in the San Francisco record books. That's the number of consecutive games the Warriors have lost.

After the San Francisco contest, the Celtics return to Los Angeles for another game with the Lakers Saturday night.

The Celtics had things pretty much their own way in racing to a 112-104 victory over the Lakers Thursday night. They sank 18 field goals in the first 12 minutes and led 42-18 at the end of the first period.

Los Angeles just never caught up. By halftime Boston had a 68-57 advantage.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Kevin Loughery scored a career high of 31 points in leading the Baltimore Bullets to a 110-105 victory over the Detroit Pistons at Baltimore. The Bullets were ahead 46-43 at the half.

Taking up the slack in admirable fashion is Willie Naulls, the former UCLA star who gained speed by trimming his weight to 220 pounds.

Naulls scored 25 points Thursday night, second high for Boston to Sam Jones' 33. Elgin Baylor got off some remarkable shots for Los Angeles despite the tight guarding imposed by the defense-minded Celtics. He had 32 points, many of them on twisting layups.

GREEN BAY — Norwegian import Oystein Mollerud, who had ridden the bench since being displaced by veteran Jim Mattson three weeks ago, will return to action in the Green Bay Bobcats' second place battle with the St. Paul's Steers at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena this weekend.

Saturday night's match will mark the opening of the Bobcats' new "win a car" contest. Fans attending Bobcat games between now and Feb. 14 will have an opportunity to complete the contest "sentence" and file their entries. Lindsay drew $75 worth of automatic fines for 10-minute and game misconducts last Saturday. He refused to pay. NHL President Clarence Campbell suspended him until he paid, retracted his statements, acknowledged NHL authority and integrity and apologized.

Cubs' Williams Agrees To Monthly Payment For Child's Support

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Chicago Cubs outfielder Billy Williams agreed in County Court Thursday to pay $70 a month support for a child born a year ago to Mrs. Darlene Kinsey, 25, of Milwaukee.

Judge Thaddeus J. Pruss also ordered Williams to pay $780 for past support and legal fees for Mrs. Kinsey.

Williams, 26, of Mobile, Ala., denied paternity of the child, Tracey Billynda, born Jan. 20, 1964. However, he agreed to support the child until she is 18, and was told by Pruss that should he fail to do so he would be judged the father and the child declared his heir.

right now," he said. "The other members of the committee have some ideas, too, and we'll just make known what action we plan to take after our meeting in Chicago."

Corbett was emphatic in making the point that the press are wrong if they think the NCAA can't do anything to stop this questionable practice. He said the colleges had no intention of getting caught in a fight between the two pro leagues.

It is common knowledge that the NFL blames the AFL for the troubled situation and vice versa.

The NFL has accused the AFL of having a secret player draft before it has its regular season draft in order to get a head start on the NFL in dickering with the college players.

The NFL, off the record, says the only way it can counteract this situation is to go to work signing players as early as possible.

The AFL, which has denied the secret draft, says the trouble stems from the National League's refusal to accept the fact that it exists.

Brodie Says Regulars 'Silly' to Work for Less Than Rookies

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers said Thursday a regular player in the pro football leagues is "silly" to work for less money than a rookie playing behind him.

Brodie experienced this problem when George Mira of the University of Miami was hired by the 49ers at the start of last season for a reported $100,000 three-year contract.

"I asked Lou Spaidia (San Francisco general manager) who was going to be the No. 1 quarterback," Brodie said. "He said I was. I then told him I expected to be paid more money than Mira."

"Yes, I got it. Until I'm beaten out, I expect more. Any regular is silly if he doesn't demand more than some rookie behind him is getting."

Wings' Gordy Howe Arouses Ire of Boston Fans

BOSTON (AP) — Few Boston crowds have been so aroused since the Tea Party. The Red Coat this time was Red Wings Gordie Howe who:

Scored two third period goals and spoiled a shutout for Bruins' goalie Ed Johnston.

Knocked rookie Bill Knibbs flat with a booming check which brought him a five-minute penalty, got a near-riotous reception, a police escort and an impromptu face full of liquid. It wasn't tea.

After all the turmoil Boston won anyway, 5-2, Thursday night.

The principals shrugged off the affair true to the silent sufferers bone-cracking code of the National Hockey League. But fans were incensed enough that Howe got a police patrol car ride away from Boston Garden even though he didn't want the protection.

Knibbs, whose goal at 1:06 of the opening period got things going, fell heavily and in obvious pain when checked into the boards five minutes before the final. It looked like he had sustained a head injury as teammates helped him into the dressing room.

Knibbs and fellow rookie Wayne Rivers, summoned all participants in four classes: weeks ago under emergency Sports cars, over and under 2 conditions which never were litres; sedans, over and under 2 alleviated, got Boston off to a 2-litre. No chains, studs or lugs, 0 lead, Murray Oliver, Ed West or tires with foreign materials fall and Tommy Williams imbedded in the tread will be allowed with goals which built the allowed Seat belts are required, score to 5-0 before Howe struck. Trophies and plaques will be Gordie's goals made his sea-awarded at a dinner in the son and career goal totals climb Fiesta Club on E. Northland to 11 and 567, respectively. Avenue.

Sports Car Club Sets Ice Capades

100 Viet Cong Die In Week's Clashes

Until Feb. 15 Steel, Labor Drop Talks for Election

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The AFL-CIO United Steelworkers and the basic steel industry will suspend negotiations for a new labor contract until after the USW elections next month, it has been learned.

Announcement of the suspension until at least Feb. 15 was expected today. The election is Feb. 9.

Word that talks would break off came Thursday night as the campaign between USW President David J. McDonald and Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel, who seeks to end McDonald's 12-year rule, reached a peak.

Close Race

Since Abel announced his candidacy is November there had been industry fears that the power struggle would have an effect on bargaining when the contract was reopened Jan. 1.

The McDonald-Abel race is regarded as close — the tough-

Report Discontent Brewing

BY PETER ARNETT
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The government claimed today its forces killed more than 100 Viet Cong guerrillas in two clashes since Wednesday.

About 100 Communist guerrillas attacked a small government unit Thursday in Thua Thien Province, 30 miles south of the North Vietnamese border, and killed three of the defenders, the government said.

Another government unit and 30 armored personnel carriers rushed in and reportedly cut down about half of the guerrillas.

A government spokesman said another 53 Viet Cong were killed Wednesday during a fight in Quang Nam Province, in central Viet Nam.

Scour Jungle

At Binh Gia, paratroopers and marines continued to scour the jungle and rubber plantations without finding any of the Viet Cong who participated in the fierce fighting which broke out Dec. 28.

The 3rd Marine Battalion was moved out of the area, but three paratroop battalions remained at a plantation airstrip.

About 500 soldiers and 11 American advisers were in Binh Gia, which the Viet Cong have vowed to retake.

About 200 Vietnamese and six American advisers were killed in the fierce fighting around the Roman Catholic refugee settlement, 40 miles east of Saigon. Two more Americans were believed captured.

Bomb Concentration

Intelligence reports of a Red concentration set off a series of aerial bombardments of the jungle area Thursday. There was no indication that the explosives and firebombs hit any of the 2,000 guerrillas believed in the area.

Two civilians were killed in Binh Gia early today by a booby trap left from the Viet Cong occupation 10 days ago.

Some intelligence reports said discontent was developing among the Viet Cong because of heavy casualties in the past 10 days. The reports, which could not be confirmed, said the guerrillas want to return to their home provinces.

South Korean Help

Word that the South Korean government is sending 2,000 soldiers to assist in the anti-Communist war created a stir in Saigon.

Military sources said the Koreans would serve primarily in noncombat roles. But the sources said some rifle companies would be sent as security for the support troops.

South Korea sent an earlier contingent — a company of mobile surgical hospital personnel — and 10 hand-to-hand combat instructors — last September.

Communist China reported that a representative of the Viet Cong has arrived in Peking for talks with Cambodia over its border with South Viet Nam. Cambodia broke relations with South Viet Nam in 1963.

Vietnamese Paratroopers found this woman and her children and other Viet Cong families when they invaded a large Viet Cong encampment Thursday. The children were suffering from shock from prestrike bombing. (AP Wirephoto)

Guests Make Beds Detroit Strike, Lockout Has Hotels Unmanned

DETROIT (AP) — Thousands of hotel guests shifted for themselves a good deal today, victimized by the combined strike and lockout at nine major hotels.

Maids, waitresses, porters, bartenders and other help were on the visiting traveler were off the job. About 2,300 were idled.

Seven of the nine hotels locked out their workers Thursday after members of the Hotel Motel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union struck two other hotels.

The union is in a new contract dispute with the Detroit Hotel Association, bargaining spokesman for the hotels.

Wage Issue

Wages are at issue, among other items. The union insists on a minimum pay of $1.50 an hour for employees who don't get tips and $1 for those who do get tips. Management has said it has made offers approximating or exceeding these demands when fringe benefits are counted.

Nearby eating places have filled the emergency bill in most instances.

Elevator help has stayed on duty in hotels where the elevators still are manually operated. Other hotels have push button operation, hoped to secure at the two At the Riverside Whittier, one struck hotels.

The union said it would file

President Johnson's Health Plans Are a Tribute to Modern Medicine

Problems Exist Partly Because Of Big Advances

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's call for a broad health program is in part a tribute to the past triumphs and sparkling new skills of modern medicine.

He proposes bold steps to solve 1965 problems of health and medical care.

But those problems exist, or are more urgent, partly because of rapid advances in medical science, especially since 1945. The President is saying, in effect, that our economic-medical-social machinery is out of date in adjusting to the new potentials for everyone's health. There are some basic reasons.

Former Killer

Infectious diseases once were our prime killer. But no longer, thanks to antibiotics and other drugs that save children and adults.

More Americans are living into middle age and beyond, thereby inviting newer enemies. Now the main killers — taking seven out of 10 American lives — are heart disease, strokes and cancer. Chronic and costly diseases are far more common.

Medical and clinical research is reacting vigorously against these threats.

At its best, American medicine is the best in the world. Surgery, radiation and rehabilitation techniques are performing seeming miracles.

Distribution Problem

But the distribution of this best and newest knowledge is becoming an ever more serious matter. How can it be made available to most people can benefit? The knowledge is coming mainly from laboratories.

from medical schools, hospitals and clinics. Part of it derives from the fact that specialists — in medical, mental or dental disease — can determine from many patients what are the best methods of diagnosis, treatment or cure, with the least hazard. But there is a time-lag before promising techniques are adopted by doctors elsewhere.

Along with everything else, costs more now. Alumni give money to try to take up the slack between costs and fees paid by medical students.

President Johnson's message outline some step toward solving such problems.

Some Steps

These include hospitalization payments for people 65 and over from Social Security or federal funds; establishment of 32 regional centers, with skilled staff, to attack heart disease, cancer, strokes, and other major diseases; federal support of medical and dental schools; provisions for medical care of to chronic or lingering illness. So do some young husbands, wives and children. But who budgets money for the day of sickness or accident? The main reliance is placed on some kind of insurance.

A growing population requires more doctors, and more medical schools. Education in a medical some manner.

Longer Run for State Fair Is Called Dream

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Extension of the Wisconsin State Fair to a 17-day run is "a dream," the chairman of the State Exposition Board said Thursday, but it should be discussed within the next few years if the fair remains in West Allis.

"Maybe now is the time to think of the fair going three weekends," Herbert P. Velsler said after a meeting at which the board had discussed problems at the fair on days of capacity attendance.

The fair has been running 10 days, including two weekends.

"A longer run would mean greater use of the facilities," said Velsler. "Right now we can only get so many people into the space we have."

Both Velsler and Willard Masterson, fair director, said facilities are taxed on days when attendance goes over 100,000.

Masterson said it would be difficult for some fair exhibitors to remain 17 days. Velsler said some exhibits might have to be changed.

By way of preparing for the 1965 fair, the board voted 4 to 2, to retain Royal American Shows of Tampa, Fla., for the Midway. At the same time, the day night he is planning his first board asked other Midway shows to make offers for 1966.

In California Police Looking for Young Man In Brutal Attacks, Murder

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP) — Before Mildred Weiss died of a bullet lodged against her spine, she murmured to police: "He was such a good-looking young man."

Officers said she was trying to describe the man who ambushed her as she and her husband, Morris, returned home Thursday night — an hour after a research engineer in nearby West Covina was wounded in a similar attack.

Police said that in both instances the gunman waylaid his victims as they left their cars to enter their homes. He shot them at point-blank range with a rifle, officers said.

Mrs. Weiss, 48, died in surgery at a San Gabriel hospital about two hours after she was shot, police said.

Weiss told officers he had let his wife out of the car and was

He headed the department of neuropsychiatry at the University of Wisconsin from 1948 to 1954, when he retired and moved to Winter Haven.

Bleckwenn originated the intravenous use of barbiturates to treat mental conditions and discovered sodium amylal, commonly known as the "truth serum."

County Bankers Association president, Ervin Nicolaisen, said the organization sponsors the award each year to help maintain friendly relationship between the bankers and farmers of the county.

Over the years the county bankers award has been the top award presented to a farmer in the county. Last year's winners were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kaminski, route 2, Weyauwega. John Nimlos, county soil conservationist, again this year has played an important part in organizing details of the award program, Nicolaisen said.

ADA District Meeting Jan. 19 At Reedsville

Two Seymour Men Among Nominees For Committeemen

Two committeemen and seven delegates are to be elected at the District Eight annual meeting of the American Dairy Association Jan. 19 at Reedsville.

In addition there will be reports of ADA activities and promotional programs, according to Vernon Schultz, Manitowoc, district chairman.

Milo K. Swanton, Wisconsin ADA first general manager and one of the state's outstanding agricultural leaders during the past three decades, will be the guest speaker, Schultz said.

The session will begin at 1 p.m. following a dinner. Two committeemen will be picked for three-year terms. Nominees are Walter Kiekhaefer and Rufus Klug, both of Greenleaf, and Ed Tierney and Ted Haase, both of Seymour.

Delegate nominees are Roland Peterson, Denmark; Raymond Obry, Kewaunee; Hilmer Mueller, Seymour; Wilmer Meissner, Two Rivers; Frank Weyers, and Bernard Fassbender, both of Kaukauna; Leo Krohn, Luxemburg; William Tong, Sturgeon Bay; Atlee Maedke, Green Bay, and Donald P. Pauly, Manitowoc.

Outagamie Meetings Set to Outline ACP Programs Available

Two educational meetings are being planned to acquaint Outagamie County farmers with Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) practices and electronic record soil test reports.

The first will be held at Black Creek village hall 1:15 p.m. Monday. The second will be at the Outagamie County Bank's meeting room at 1:15 p.m. Jan. 15.

Russ Luckow, Outagamie County Agricultural agent, will conduct both sessions. Also discussed will be Soil Conservation Service programs.

State Official and Outagamie Committeemen to Discuss Plans For Arrangements With Packer

BLACK CREEK — Marketing arrangements between an Eastern packing company and National Farm Organization (NFO) members will be the subject of a meeting soon between Robert Manke, state NFO bargaining chairman, and the farm group's Outagamie bargaining committee members.

The conference, slated within 10 days, was announced at a county bargaining seminar here this week. Illinois NFO members this week received about $2 a head over market price for their cattle under a similar arrangement.

Central Shipping

The committee will discuss plans to ship hogs, sheep and cattle.

Under the plan hogs and cattle are weighed at the central shipping point and the farmer receives the price being paid by the packer. The packer then handles shipping and absorbs the weight loss in the shipment.

Frances Peil, Chippewa County, NFO assistant organizer, said this week's seminar was held to explain what the NFO is and why an organization of its nature was essential to agriculture.

Robert Matz, Outagamie NFO president, said 1,800 letters were sent to all farmers in the county inviting them to the meeting.

Peil used a 14-page outline prepared by the NFO national office for the seminar discussion. He said the same topic would be used in about 1,500 county meetings, in 23 states which are NFO affiliated.

Point Out Problems

Peil quoted United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), agricultural college and private surveys to point out problems facing the farmer.

A government census report shows 46 per cent of all families in rural America are classified in the poverty class—less than $3,000 cash income. Peil stated. These include farmers and all small towns of 5,000 population and under. Peil stated Wisconsin had 38.4 per cent classified in this class.

Peil said these figures were brought about by the refusal of farmers to band together as an organization and ask for fair prices.

No Relief Expected

No relief can be expected from government either, because the number of congressional districts classified as rural areas has shrunk from 251 40 years ago to 165 just ten years ago and only 53 today, Peil said. A farm district is one in which at least 20 per cent of the voters are farmers.

The largest farmer cannot bargain on even terms with the largest packer, Peil said, because the largest packer may handle 18 per cent of the total production while the largest farmer produces only a fraction of one per cent of the total meat.

Peil said the only answer to present day agricultural problems must be a modern marketing system that will bring equity of income to agricultural

Free Trees Are Available At Calumet

Seedlings Will Need Special Care Before Final Transplanting

CHILTON — Free trees are again available to 4-H and FFA members, according to Calumet County Agricultural Agent, Orrin Meyer.

The varieties available are pine, spruce, cedar, and ash. However, Meyer reminds the prospective planters that the evergreens will need some additional tending as they are only a year or two old and must be planted in a garden and "babied" for about two years before being transplanted to a permanent location.

The ash are bigger, Meyer says, and can be planted anywhere and grow well in this area.

Trees must be ordered in multiples of 25 of each variety. Orders will be received by the agent at the courthouse.

For windbreaks, the county agent recommends purchasing older trees. Orders for these may also be placed with Meyer and must be for at least 125 trees. The cost is a little in excess of 3 cents apiece.

Progress Continues on Eradication, Control of Animal Diseases in State

Less Bovine Tuberculosis Noted in 1964; Fed Herds Found With Rampant Disease

Progress toward eradication and control of animal diseases in Wisconsin went on at a steady pace in 1964. Dr. A. A. Erdmann, chief state-federal veterinarian of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, noted.

Less bovine tuberculosis was disclosed than in any previous year. But, Dr. Erdmann cautioned, a few herds were found in which the disease was rampant.

It is these isolated foci of infection which pose the greatest threat to Wisconsin's cattle industry, he stated. This threat will remain until the last infected cow has been located and removed for slaughter.

During 1964, about 27,000 herds were given tests. Cattle in the herds totaled 794,292. Of these numbers, five herds, comprising over 300 cattle, either were or will be condemned because of TB. The herds were located in Eau Claire, Green, and Ozaukee Counties.

In the area of brucellosis, the past 12 months disclosed 526 reactors to the disease. How effective the brucellosis program in Wisconsin has been can best be ascertained by noting that the 526 were a small part of the 2.6 million cows in the state.

The number of reactors found in 1964 was 50 per cent less than found in 1963. And the picture is even brighter when the figures of the last half six months of this year are compared to the first six. A drop of 50 per cent is also found here.

A brucellosis milk ring test is conducted every four months on the state's approximately 86,000 dairy herds. During each round in 1964, only about one herd of every 1,000 was suspicious.

Mastitis Control

The mastitis control program inaugurated in mid-year is also showing progress. Catalase tests were administered to 33.6 per cent of the 83,945 herds. Of these, 8,816 were Grade A and 19,398 Grade B. Only 4 per cent of the Grade A herds showed more than a 40 per cent tolerance and 13.4 per cent in the Grade B area were found in the 50 per cent or more area. California mastitis test results on 23,800 herds resulted in a quarantine percentage of 1.9 per cent.

Wisconsin, which is now in Phase of the National Hog Cholera program had four cases of the disease diagnosed and confirmed in 1964. This compared to 12 in 1963. Phase II of the program is concerned with the reduction of incidence of the disease. The next phase is the elimination of outbreaks and Phase IV, declaration of a cholera-free status. The four herds in which cholera was diagnosed contained 622 swine. Of this total, 252 succumbed.

Regained Rating

After losing its sheep scabies-free status in 1963 because of discovery of the disease in one county, Wisconsin regained its rating in 1964 after eradication and re-inspection in the affected county and surrounding areas.

One third of the state's approximately 7,500 flocks were inspected in 1964. Six flocks were dipped as a precautionary measure. Under the program instituted in 1961, one third of the flocks will be re-inspected each year.

The year also saw the start of construction of a new laboratory in Madison. Completion is expected by mid-summer.

ment, will discuss sire evaluation. The annual meeting will be conducted prior to the noon banquet. Included will be election of directors, adoption of new by-laws and constitution and reports from the winter Holstein tour, state convention and Fox Valley association meeting.

Noting Annual Net Worth Changes Key to Sound Financial Planning

RUSS LUCKOW
Outagamie County Agricultural Agent

Figuring net worth and noting annual changes is an accurate guide to family financial planning and progress. It may be higher than you think. This is particularly true of farm families, where much income is put back into business each year. An annual net worth statement is not difficult to make, especially for those who keep complete farm and home records.

Luckow

ords. It is simply a statement of "what we own" as against "what we owe".

Most of us think in terms of real and personal property. Farm owners list the value of the farm plus other real estate. The approximate value of personal property in the home must be listed (including clothes, furniture, appliances, etc.). Include current values of livestock feeds, seeds, and supplies on hand.

Present Value

List present value of all farm machinery and equipment. Do not overlook the family automobile. Include cash on hand; cash value of life insurance plus accumulated interest and dividends; current value of stocks and bonds owned; and notes and accounts due you.

Items under what you owe should include any mortgages, on real estate; notes payable; life insurance loans; income tax due; taxes past due; and interest and rent due. The total of these items minus the value of what you own, is your "net worth."

There are many reasons for making an annual net worth statement, especially for young farmers and their wives who are interested in maximum financial progress. It is the "ultimate" in a good system of complete farm and home records which show the "strong and weak points."

Compare Rate

You may wish to compare how you rate with others. For this purpose annual business summaries of actual farm and home operations generally are available from the extension service.

A complete net worth statement, kept in a safe deposit box, can be invaluable in many ways, particularly in reporting losses.

An application for a loan certainly calls for an accurate, up-to-date net worth statement. The fact that the applicant already has one is an excellent recommendation in itself.

Need Identification

Dairy Records Make Good Herd Builders

Dairy records are the building blocks for a good herd. But accurate records are impossible unless the dairyman has proper identification for each animal that can't be lost, confused, or in error.

Schwartz

The most common, easy and permanent record is a sketch of the animal's color markings. However, with solid-color breeds, this method is obviously inadequate. They require ear tattoos for permanent identification. Ear tags are alternate choices for all breeds. Neck chains are good temporary identifiers, but their value depends on the dairyman's learning to know all animals.

The key to any identification system is to get everything written down. Written records make a quick and easy source if temporary identification is lost. Another method is to take pictures of each animal. When you take the picture, write the animal's birth date, sire and dam on a blackboard and get this in the picture.

Records Are Guides

Identification records are guidelines to a good herd. To the 4-H dairyman, identification records are highly useful when studying calf herd management, comparing individuals, evaluating potential herd sires and planning a dairy herd breeding program. They are especially important when developing cow families within your herd.

An accurate identification system is valuable to more than the 4-H dairyman who is just learning record keeping. Dam and daughter comparisons can't be made for two years, or until the daughter begins production. Registered breeders need to get in the record-keeping habit early, because the entire value of the purebred business is based on records.

Identification record costs are minimal, if not free, but the information they can give you can help bring about better money returns through culling and better breeding programs.

Outagamie Farmers Study New Tax Laws

Outagamie County farmers attending an income tax management meeting at the courthouse Tuesday were given current information on the latest changes by James Wise of the Wisconsin Tax Department's Appleton office.

Attending were farm and home development members and participants in the electronic farm records program. The tax official was assisted by Gary Blomberg, Outagamie County farm management agent.

Wise discussed the effects of yearly income to fluctuations on taxes paid, maximizing income after taxes, methods of income leveling and explanation of depreciation options.

Other topics included how to compute investment credit; when should personal expenses be itemized; tax rules and regulations affecting farmers and a working session in which farmers estimated tax and made tax management decisions based on figures from a sample farm.

Growing Conditions of Yellow Birch Studied

The timber cruiser or the farmer likes to find yellow birch in his timber stand because it is one of the most valuable woods in Wisconsin — worth about $150 per thousand board feet.

Because of the value of yellow birch, University of Wisconsin foresters C. H. Winget and T. T. Kozlowski, have been studying the conditions under which it grows best. Since yellow birch is often difficult to establish in a stand, they wanted to know on some of the conditions for seedling survival.

They found out from green-house experiments that seedlings grew better on humus than on soil or rotten wood. Seedling survival was highest on humus and much lower on soil or forest litter. Furthermore seedlings in the forest humus beds were six to seven times as tall as those grown on soil or wood after the first 44 days of growth.

Growth Rate

Established yellow birch have trouble competing with other species in the forest. Winget and Kozlowski checked this by measuring the growth rate of yellow birch in a stand including basswood, hemlock and maple. Yellow birch made its biggest growth in mid-May before other competing trees had developed crowns to cut out the light. Then its growth slowed down to about the same as other species.

Foresters and landowners want to know where you can expect to find large yellow birch trees. The University of Wisconsin researchers say that it is difficult to find a suitable stand of yellow birch to study to get this answer. In most stands it has been harvested because of its high commercial value.

Yellow birch is often found on wet lands. It may be associated with black ash and white cedar in hardwood swamps or with hemlock in wet upland areas. The foresters also found yellow birch mixed with sugar maple and basswood on drier sites. It's also common mixed with red maple, ironwood, white ash and American elm. Once in a while you will find yellow birch with red oak, white birch and aspen. Yellow birch seedlings usually establish themselves in forests on rotten logs or stumps and occasionally on windfall mounds. Yellow birch is likely to spring up in areas where the soil has been disturbed, especially on abandoned logging roads. It needs something to disturb the seed bed to get and needs an opening in the forest to make initial growth. The species tends to be more scattered in a stand as the trees get older. Yellow birch usually survives in quantity for one generation in today's timber stands.

State Reports Better Crops Than in 1963

Cranberries,
Potatoes and Tobacco All Higher

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wisconsin's harvests of potatoes, cranberries and tobacco were all higher in 1964 than a year earlier, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Friday in its final crop report of the year.

Wisconsin corn for grain production was the same as a year ago and the state's oat crop was smaller.

The Wisconsin fall potato crop this year was 6,435,000 hundredweight, compared with 5,700,000 in 1963. The yield was 195 hundredweight per acre on 33,000 acres, compared with 190 hundredweight per acre on 30,000 acres last year.

Cranberry Production

Cranberry production in the state was 405 million barrels, five million more than last year although acres harvested dropped from 4,400 to 4,300. The yield was 94.2 barrels per acre, compared with 90.0 in 1963.

The Wisconsin tobacco harvest was 18,675,000 pounds, compared with 17,979,000 pounds a year earlier. The yield was 1,713 pounds per acre, compared with 1,680 in 1963. This year 10,900 acres were harvested, 200 more than in 1963.

The production of Type 54 Southern Wisconsin cigar binder was the same in the last two years, 8,280,000 pounds. Type 55 Northern Wisconsin was 10,395,000, against 9,699,000 a year earlier.

Liebhardt cited field plot experiments where fertilizer applications and existing soil fertility were varied systematically. He compared yield and lodging out the summer of corn grown measurements in plots receiving in potassium deficient soils no fertilizer with plots that were showed that rather dramatic fertilized with 160 pounds per acre of nitrogen only. How can farmers reduce the possibilities of lodging? Liebhardt suggested that they have their soil tested periodically, and apply fertilizer mixtures that would correct any deficiencies that may exist. If a farmer plans to up his fertilizer applications, he should apply only balanced fertilizers that will bring all of the plant nutrients up together.

Corn varieties also vary considerably in their ability to resist lodging. Select those varieties that are resistant to lodging, and control insect pests that tend to weaken stalks and roots.

COUNTRY LIFE

Each week farm families in Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet, Brown, Waupaca, Shawano and Waushara counties eagerly look forward to the Appleton Post-Crescent edition of Country Life. Country Life is packed with important information, stories, features, pictures and advertisements of special interest to the farmer. producers and meet the marketing problems of the agricultural industry.

Explaining the NFO program, Peil said the organization was continuing to sign members because there was no substitute for strength at the bargaining table.

Bargaining Agent

The NFO is the bargaining agent for all farmers who sign membership agreements. Peil said the NFO would bargain for commodity price raises in grain, dairy and meat to hold the prices in line to keep farmers from shifting from one crop to another.

Points of the NFO brought out by Peil were:

—Organization of farmers. This is what is important as the farmer adds his production to the strength of the organization.

—A sufficient amount of the total production of any given commodity is brought together so buyers cannot fulfill their needs from other sources.

—Farmers can make their bargaining power felt through the only possible manner, a holding action.

—Contracts signed and activated with processors, which will mean fair prices for farmers and make it possible for them to set up a structure to put successful modern-day marketing systems into operation.

Peil said it was very likely another holding action would be held in 1965.

Award Judges Get Instruction

Bankers, Delegates From Towns Confer Tuesday at Waupaca

WAUPACA — Judges for the Waupaca County Bankers Association's outstanding farmer award program got their instructions at a noon luncheon, Tuesday, according to Ervin Nicolaisen, association president.

Nominations from each township in the county have already been made. Judges were told what qualifications are necessary in selecting the farm couple to receive the bankers award. Three judges from each of the 22 townships in the county attended.

The Waupaca County Bankers Association award will be presented to the outstanding farm couple of the county at a Feb. 16 banquet at the Waupaca Country Club.

The award is designed to honor the couple, who according to the judges, have made the most progress in improving their farm during the past year.

State Spared Heavy Growth Of Insect Pests

Inadequate Moisture Was a Farm Problem In Growing Season

Although Wisconsin farmers had to contend with inadequate moisture during some of the growing season, they were spared any heavy infestation of insect pests.

With an eye on heavy damage caused by the cereal leaf beetle in Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana, insect survey specialists of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, conducted an intensive survey for the pest especially in southern Wisconsin. None was found, to the relief of the agency's entomologists, but they will be back in 1965 to see if the beetle is on the move.

This year was "normal" for insects in the state. There was some damage to corn as the result of grasshopper feeding. There was also some extensive feeding on alfalfa but there were no unusual outbreaks as has been the case in some years.

37 Counties

Two more counties — Adams and Monroe — reported incidences of Dutch elm disease, bringing the number to 37. But Kurtz noted that many metropolitan areas had less stricken trees in 1964 than in previous years. The dry season may have contributed to the drop in cases, but Kurtz is of the opinion that good control programs, long advocated by department personnel, helped.

There were no reports of Japanese beetles in Wisconsin. We are one of the few states east of the Mississippi that is without the pest.

During 1964, the state assumed direction of the white pine blister rust program, with the Federal Forest Service co-operating. In previous years, the Forest Service had spearheaded the work with the state as a cooperating agency.

Nurserymen were generally satisfied with sales of stock and beekeepers enjoyed a good year as well.

Veteran Faces Death Sentence On Spy Charge

Detroit Native Denies He Sold Secrets to Russians

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Glenn Thompson, 29, a husky Air Force veteran, faces a possible death sentence on charges that he sold military secrets to the Soviet Union with the aid of three Russians.

One of the Russians, named

Thompson

as a co-conspirator in the three-count federal indictment Thursday, was ordered expelled from the country by the State Department. He is Boris V. Karpovich, a counselor in the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Thompson pleaded innocent at his arraignment on charges that he furnished military data to Soviet agents from 1957-1963 and received payments totaling $1-700. U.S. Atty. Joseph E. Hoey commented that payments listed in the indictment were only samples and that there were many more.

Released On Bail
Thompson was released on $15,000 bail by U.S. Dist. Judge Walter Bruchhausen in Brooklyn. No trial date was set.

His German-born wife, Eveline, 26, whom he married while serving with the Air Force Office of Special Investigation in Berlin, was at the arraignment. They have three children, Patricia, 9, Karen, 6, and Dean, 2. "I don't believe any of these charges," Mrs. Thompson told newsmen. "My husband would never have done anything like this against his country. He will be cleared."

The indictment alleges that Thompson was involved in an espionage network, obtaining information for the Russians on U.S. military installations, missile sites, code books and intelligence and counterintelligence activities, including the identity of American agents. The government alleged 13 overt acts.

Spy Operations

The spy operations were said to have occurred in East and West Berlin and later on Long Island where Thompson lives, and in New York, Detroit, Washington and Great Falls, Mont.

Hafez Puts Syria Under Martial Law

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — President Amin Hafez invoked martial law today, charging that Syrian "reactionaries in collaboration with imperialist allies abroad" were trying to hamper Syria's move to socialism.

Gen. Hafez set up a five-man military tribunal with powers, including the death sentence, to handle an assortment of crimes.

"The capitalists are powerful because of their money and their imperialist allies abroad," Hafez warned. "They have together begun a propaganda campaign to slander the Socialist measures in Syria."

The statement did not name the foreign powers with which the capitalists had allegedly collaborated.

Hafez' Baath party regime earlier this week nationalized 115 industrial companies, including cement and sugar plants.

British Reported to Have 50,000 Men in Malaysia

Sukarno Walkout Stirs Speculations on Attack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Sukarno's announcement that Indonesia has walked out of the United Nations stirred speculation today that it foreshadows an all-out military attack on Malaysia.

These suspicions at U.N. headquarters were heightened by a letter from Malaysia to the Security Council charging that Indonesia is building up its forces along the Borneo frontier between Malaysia and Indonesia.

The Malaysian government said it would seek U.N. aid at once if Indonesia launches attacks more intensive than the sporadic guerrilla raids it has been making across the Borneo border and the small parties of infiltrators it has been landing on the Malaysian Peninsula.

Sukarno claims Malaysia is a device to preserve British colonialism in Southeast Asia and has pledged his nation will crush the young federation before next year.

An Indonesian source at the United Nations said a stepup in armed attacks on Malaysia was possible as a result of Indonesia's withdrawal from the organization.

"We are strong enough to crush Malaysia, a stooge of neo-colonialism, due to arms aid from the Soviet Union," he said. The Soviet Union has supplied Indonesia more than $1 billion in arms but deliveries declined in 1964. The Russians have advised the Indonesians not to quit the United Nations, but Indonesian sources in Moscow said the Soviet Foreign Ministry had informed their embassy walkout would not affect the Kremlin's policy toward Indonesia.

U.N. officials waited for Sukarno to communicate his walkout announcement in writing. Members of the Indonesian mission said no official instructions had arrived from Jakarta. They indicated that there might not be any written notice.

One official was asked what Sukarno meant when he said in a speech Thursday that Indonesia had "walked out" of the United Nations.

"The Russians walked out once (in 1955), but they did not withdraw," he replied.

Sukarno also said that he would turn his back on U.N. agencies that have earmarked more than $50 million to help underdeveloped Indonesia.

"We can afford to operate without the United Nations specialized agencies," he said. "It is good for our nation to stand on our own feet. I have said: 'Go to hell with your aid.'"

Princess in House Near An Explosion

Police Arrest
20-Mile Chase

ABBEYLEIX, Ireland (AP) — Police arrested seven men at the end of a 20-mile car chase early today after an explosion that shattered windows in Princess Margaret's Irish holiday mansion.

The blast, from a shorted-out power station, put out the lights of Abbeyleix house where Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, are visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Viscountess de Vesci. No one was hurt.

Police jumped into action and quickly cornered a group of men in a wood near the house. A gasoline bomb was thrown.

As the bomb burst with a bright flash, the men — believed to be members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army — made a break. No one was hurt by the bomb.

Police sources estimated there were about 16 men in the group. They piled into cars and roared off, pursued by squad cars. Some 20 miles farther on, seven men were captured.

Police had thrown a cordon around the 18th century mansion when the princess arrived Thursday with her husband.

The police said saboteurs about 11 p.m. threw a heavy wire across high tension cables near the De Vesci's mansion. The resulting short circuit exploded a transformer unit about three miles from the house. The town of Abbeyleix and the surrounding countryside were blacked out.

Belgium Denies Money Owed to United Nations

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgium claims it does not owe any money to the United Nations.

The Belgian government claims its case is different, even though it refuses to pay its assessment for the peacekeeping operation in the Congo.

The Belgian government claims the United Nations owes it money—for the Belgian military bases U.N. forces took over in the Congo in 1960.

The Belgian objections were voiced by the Socialist paper Le Peuple today and confirmed by a Foreign Ministry spokesman.

The U.N. secretariat claims that Belgium, by its refusal to pay Congo assessments, owed $3,451,659 as of Jan. 1 and should pay $201,461 to get off the list of two-year delinquents.

Priceless Gem Recovered From Bus Station Locker

detectives today from a locker in a Miami bus station.

Shortly afterward, the officers and Allen Dale Kuhn, one of three Miami men accused of the sensational theft of the 563-carat gem from New York's American Museum of Natural History, jumped aboard a New York-bound plane at Miami International Airport.

An anonymous telephone tip led the officers to the downtown Miami bus station where the gem and some of the 21 other gems taken in the burglary were found.

It was reported that the De Long ruby was not in the locker. This was one of the three most famous gems taken, along with the midnight sapphire.

Shortly before 8 a.m., Kuhn and his four escorts dashed from a compact automobile at the airport.

Russia Reported Back Of Turkey on Cyprus

Nikolai V. Podgorny, a member of the Kremlin's top men, reportedly has told the Turks they support Turkey's proposal for a federated Cyprus.

There has been no official announcement of this change in Soviet position, but Turkish lawmakers said their Russian counterparts assured them privately of support. They said the Russians told them it is obvious the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities cannot live together any longer.

Backed Greeks
The Soviet Union has backed the Greek Cypriot government of President Makarios solidly since the Greek and Turkish Cypriots started fighting in December 1963. The Greek Cypriot majority demands enosis — union of the island with Greece.

Late last year, Turkey abandoned its position that the only Cyprus solution was partition of the island into Greek and Turkish areas. Instead, Turkey suggested that the two NATO countries keep the two NATO countries from going to war over the island. Because of this, the United States came under attack in both the Turkish press and Parliament, and the first anti-American demonstrations since the Cyprus issue is to come.

The Cyprus issue is to come World War II broke out.

Rapid Buildup to Counter A Threat From Indonesia

SINGAPORE (AP) — British armed service spokesmen confirmed today that Britain's military strength in the Malaysian area is at its highest peak since the end of the Korean War.

The spokesmen were commenting on London reports that British and other Commonwealth troops in Malaysia now total 50,000.

A rapid buildup is under way to counter a threat from Indonesia which is reported massing forces in bases surrounding Malaysia.

70 Vessels

A navy spokesman said Far East ships number more than 70 and include such power-packed vessels as the aircraft carriers Eagle and Victorious, the command ship Bulwark, guided missile destroyers and fast-moving frigates.

Six warships, four of them minesweepers, are being taken out of mothballs and added to the fleet.

When the 44,000-ton Eagle steams into harbor, the fleet will be the "biggest British naval concentration in the world," the spokesman said.

A Royal Air Force representative said a number of new planes have been added to the force, and it now "has sufficient power to deter any aggression." He declined to give details but noted reports that Britain's V-bombers in England have been put on standby orders.

Dozen Bombers

There are also V-bombers — possibly a dozen — known to be stationed in Malaysia, mostly on the northwestern coast of the Malaysian mainland.

Troop strength is being bolstered by the transfer here of 500 paratroopers from England and a similar number of Gurkhas from Hong Kong.

Students Demand Huong's Ouster

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Nearly 1,000 students planned Saturday and Sunday, and antigovernment agitation in the city of Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of here, blaring sound truck demands for the ouster of Prime Minister Tran Van Huong.

After marching on the province chief's house, the students assembled in the main square with their loudspeakers. The province chief tried unsuccessfully to talk to them and troops then moved in and broke up the group. One student was reported arrested.

Similar trouble is expected in other cities, including Saigon. Hue was reported quiet but students still were boycotting schools and planned weekend demonstrations.

In Saigon, police sources said one of their plainclothesmen, Nguyen Van Bai, was seized by youths outside Buddhist headquarters Thursday night, dragged inside and severely beaten.

Meetings inside the Buddhist headquarters compound are planned Saturday and Sunday, and antigovernment agitation was expected to continue. In another field, rumors spread through Saigon over the past four days that a new coup is imminent.

One of these rumors gained such currency that the Saigon police force was alerted Thursday night, but nothing happened.

According to that rumor, which came from a fairly high political source, the Saigon military governor, Phan Van Dong, and the 4th Army Corps commander, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, were planning a coup against the civilian government and the military council headed by Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

According to another rumor, Khanh was planning a final coup against the Huong government, to install a military dictatorship.

Threat to Astronauts

Radiation Belt Originates Far In Space, Scientist Suggests

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP) — Van Allen Belt radiation, a threat to astronauts, originates far in space on the dark side of the earth, suggests an Ames Research Center scientist.

Source of the high energy particles has mystified space physicists since discovery of the upper atmosphere radiation belt in 1958.

Dr. John H. Wolfe, researcher at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames research facility at Moffett Field, placed away from the sun at least as instruments aboard recently launched satellites to study the 240,000 miles.

A turbulent boundary region or about 95,000 miles — suggest the following picture: The solar wind — hydrogen energy Van Allen Belt particles, and helium nuclei streaming from the sun — hits the earth's magnetic field at about five earth diameters in space. These are low energy particles.

The earth's magnetic field still too strong for the souped-up solar particles to penetrate directly, Wolfe said, but the field is weak in the distant tail. Wolfe said the satellite instruments indicate it is here, far out on the dark side of the earth. # Congressional Air Reserve to Start Training

Barry Goldwater
To be Replaced
As Commander

BY FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress back, Capitol Hill's brass-studded Air Force Reserve squadron will soon hold its first training meeting since last June.

The 9999th Air Reserve Squadron will also be getting a new commander to replace Barry Goldwater who is vacating his seat as Republican senator from Arizona. Goldwater gave up his command of the squadron several weeks ago.

For the longer range, the squadron of 54 Senate and House members and congressional staffers faces a doubtful future.

Change Ordered

"This is undetermined," the Air Force said when asked whether the 9999th will remain in existence when congressmen reservists are shifted from the ready to the standby reserve, along with other key government officials Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has ordered such a governmentwide shift.

The 9999th is heavily weighted with brass. Its roster has included Maj. Gen. Goldwater, 2 brigadier generals, 4 colonels and 15 lieutenant colonels, plus an assortment of majors, captains and a few first lieutenants. The squadron has no mobilization mission as a unit. Its members individually do have "mobilization designation."

Jenkins A Member

the political campaign after it was disclosed he had been arrested twice on morals charges.

The 9999th was formed in January 1961 "as a vehicle to afford inactive duty, non-pay training to members of Congress and their professional staff who are Air Force reservists," the Air Force said.

While Congress is in session, the squadron members gather at 8 a.m. each Tuesday morning in an auditorium of one of the Senate office buildings.

The weekly sessions are divided into intelligence briefings by Pentagon experts, a lecture, and a question and answer period.

Squadron members are cleared for information up to and including data classified as secret. The Air Force said that Jenkins' secret clearance still is in suspension.

Council Seeks to Ban Telecasts at Astronaut Homes

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Town councilmen of suburban El Lago are weighing steps to control telecasts from the homes of astronauts.

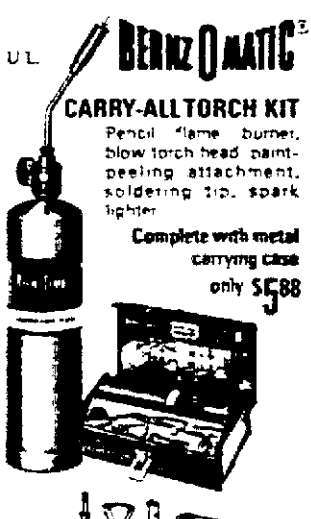

Thursday night they discussed an ordinance to require permits for obstructions on city streets. It listed television trucks or mobile equipment as possible obstructions.

Mayor George Walraven said radio-television units "turned Timber Cove subdivision into a madhouse during the first space flights. We're not going to stand for it."

He said the ordinance would be rewritten and he felt sure it would be adopted at the next council meeting.

Eight astronauts have homes in the El Lago vicinity. They are Frank Borman, Donn F. Eisele, Edward H. White II, Russell L. Schweickart, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., John W. Young, Thomas P. Stafford and Neil A. Armstrong.

Service Station Operators Fight Against Price Battle

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "Gimme 50 cents worth of gas," said the customer. "And while you're at it, sweep out the car and tighten up the wheel nuts." The harried service station operator complied, then was handed a $20-bill in payment.

The attendant made change and breathed a sigh of relief — only to find another car waiting in line with similar demands.

The campaign stemmed from the fact three Phoenix service stations cut prices two cents per gallon last week — selling regular for 31.9 cents and premium for 33.9 — and put up signs advertising same.

Deluge of Cars
The Arizona Gasoline Retailers Association didn't think it quite cricket, contending such signs incite gas price wars. So it called out its troops.

Pickets with "Unfair to AGRA" signs first appeared at the three stations. Then came the deluge of cars driven by men wearing uniforms of other oil companies. The drivers ordered small purchases of gas, paid for them with large bills and demanded extra services.

The campaign was launched, said Henry Cox, association president, because the stations "were using their price signs as a weapon to intimidate other dealers to incite a gas war."

Both sides claimed victory of sorts. "It's getting a lot of action from the public," said Roy Gay, a station owner. "We've been doing about four times more gas business than usual for today."

Price signs at the stations remained up through the picket campaign and Cox says no new action is planned at present.

"We just wanted to show an oil company we have an organization," Cox said.

Three Die in 2 Valley Area Auto Crashes

Wisconsin highways so far this year, compared to 31 on this date in 1964.

In the Green Bay accident, Evans' car, which was being driven by Macco, slammed into the caboose. Police estimate the car was going about 35 to 40 miles per hour.

Macco died of a severe skull fracture, and Evans of a crushed chest. They were pronounced dead on arrival at St. Vincent Hospital. They were alone in the auto.

According to police the automatic wig-wag signals at the tracks were operating. The crash occurred on a wet road with "very limited visibility," according to the police report.

Skidded 76 Feet
According to police, the car in which Macco and Evans were riding skidded 76 feet before hitting the right front side of the caboose. Engineer of the train was John T. Kysen. Green Bay.

Delmore Evans, driving an oil burner company service truck, was headed west toward Shawano, when the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve on State 29 about six miles east of Bonduel, according to Shawano County Sheriff Fred Lemhouse.

The vehicle vaulted the ditch and crashed headon into a tree on the lawn of the William McGee farm. Heavy fog shrouded the area, Lemhouse said.

Evans died of severe head injuries.

Ross C. Hyland, 54, and Charles W. Schlegel, 64, both of Madison, were killed Thursday night when a car driven by Hyland struck a guard rail on the west beltline route on Madison's South Side during a thick fog. The wives of both men were injured.

Fred Parker, 80, of Fennimore, a member of the Grant County Board for 30 years and its chairman for 20, died Thursday in a crash on Highway 18 about seven miles east of Fennimore. He was the father of Cedric Parker, city editor of the Madison Capital Times.

Grant County authorities said Parker, who was alone, attempted to stop his car on the wet and foggy highway when he came up behind a school bus pulling onto the roadway after dropping off several students at a farm.

Parker's car skidded sideways and was struck by a car going in the opposite direction, investigators said. The school bus was not hit.

Parker was scheduled to preside at a new county board session beginning next month.

Free Funds of Italian Balzan Foundation

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—The Swiss Ministry of Interior today freed the funds of the Swiss-Italian Balzan Foundation. It had blocked them last Feb. 26.

The ministry, which supervises the financial activity of the foundation, blocked the fund after the foundation awarded the 1963 Balzan Peace Prize to the United Nations.

Both the Swiss and Italian authorities connected with the foundation maintained the award was improperly handled because the award committee had not been consulted.

Four Woodsmen Found Dead

EMBARRASS, Minn. (AP)—The bodies of four men were found in a small, two-room cabin north of here Thursday. All apparently were victims of asphyxiation.

St. Louis County deputy sheriff William Wagner of Tower identified the men as Ed and Bob Paavola, who were brothers; Roy Maki and Toivo Maki. Relationship of the Makis was not known. All were pulpwood cutters.

The men were in their 50s and 60s.

Wagner said deputy coroner Dr. Donald Haase of Babbitt ruled the men died of suffocation.

Wagner said it appeared one of the men had fallen asleep while smoking in bed and had started a mattress fire which smoldered during the night.

Rapid Buildup Move Against Sukarno Threat

180 air miles southeast of Kuala Lumpur and adjacent to Singapore.

In Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia's Foreign Ministry spokesman held out the possibility that Indonesia's withdrawal from the United Nations was the result of a "preconceived arrangement" between that country and Communist China.

Growing Coalition

The spokesman, Ahman Nordin, warned this could mean "a growing coalition between Indonesia and Peking and closer identity of purpose and policy."

Nordin said one likely effect would be an intensification of Indonesia's military efforts to crush Malaysia.

Britain's army minister, Fred Mulley, was told by Lt. Gen. Osman Bin Jawa, Malaysia's armed forces commander, that Malaysia may need more British help.

Mulley spent an hour at the Defense Ministry in Kuala Lumpur closeted with Osman and other top defense officials, as the windup of a two-day visit to Kuala Lumpur.

British troops, said to number as many as 10,000, are now in Malaysian Borneo, helping maintain a defense line against Indonesian guerrillas. Mulley is scheduled to visit them before he leaves.

A British spokesman said Mulley will spend the weekend in Singapore, conferring with Britain's Far East military chiefs, then fly Monday to Jesselton in the Borneo state of Sabah.

troit, operates a service station on Long Island, where he also runs an independent fuel oil business. He joined the Air Force in 1952, and served in West Berlin, Labrador and several bases in the United States before his discharge in 1958.

Thompson's arrest by four FBI agents at noon Thursday came as hardly a surprise to him.

"Thompson knew he was under investigation, having been questioned as long as a year ago," his attorney, Sidney Siben, told the court.

Court-Martial

Despite a court-martial, Thompson remained in a position of trust with the Air Force in Germany.

On Jan. 9, 1957, the FBI said, he was convicted of being unfit for duty because of drunkenness, leaving his post and stealing a revolver.

He was demoted from airman first class to airman second class, and forfeited $67 in pay.

The indictment against Thompson named these co-conspirators: Karpovich, who once worked at the United Nations as an interpreter and used the alias "John Kurlinsky"; Fedor Kudashkin, former chief of the Soviet section of verbatim reporters at the United Nations; and a Russian named only as "Steven."

Returned to Russia

Kudashkin returned to the Soviet Union in August 1963 "for imperative family reasons." This coincided with the end of Thompson's alleged spy activities which, the indictment said, ran from June 1957, to July 1963. The indictment said the Russians provided "large sums of money" to finance Thompson's activities. He is said to have received his instructions by short wave radio.

Thompson's Bay Shore, N.Y., home is equipped with a 15-foot radio aerial. Neighbors said this was used to transmit radio instructions to his oil trucks over a citizens and.

Thompson, 6-foot-2 and 250 pounds, presented a varied image to his neighbors.

Some looked on him as a "good joe — a guy who would do anything to help you out."

To others he was a man who kept pretty much to himself, and had little to do with his children other than to discipline them.

Lived Modestly
All his neighbors agreed he lived modestly in his $12,500 home. A year ago, he added an upstairs room.

But Thompson presented a strange face, too. He had engaged in a running racial feud with his next-door-neighbor, Benjamin Young, the only Negro on the block.

Young said Thompson erected a "spite fence," shouted barbs against the Negro family, and planted a sign in his yard reading: "House for sale, mixed neighborhood."

Young said Thompson also said the pilots got lost in bad weather, and were low on fuel when they landed their prop-driven Skyraiders at Djelfa.

They were identified as Lt. Cmdr. Gerald K. Loeb, 7476 Greenway Drive, South Jacksonville, Fla., and Lt. (j.g.) Ronald H. Marron, 10 Hunt St., Peabody, Mass.

The pilots telephoned the embassy military attaché in the search for an Italian fishing vessel.

Informants at the Naples office of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said it was normal practice for NATO pilots and their planes to be held following individual returns filed by single persons under 65 years of age. The agency said it incorrectly would probably take two or three days to get them released from Algeria.

Navy Pilots to Be Released At Algiers

ALGERS (AP) — U.S. Embassy officials were making arrangements today for the release of two American Navy pilots taken into custody after landing 135 miles south of Algiers.

The pilots had left the aircraft carrier Saratoga to participate in the search for an Italian fishing vessel.

Nelson Asks Scenic Roads

Proposal Suggests State-Federal Paid Highway Easements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has proposed the use of federal funds—to be matched by state money—to purchase scenic easements in a move to beautify the nation's highways.

In offering his proposal in the Senate Thursday, Nelson said it had been tested successfully in Wisconsin and was already supported by the governors of 12 states.

The senator said his plan would implement President Johnson's goal of making highways more beautiful.

Under his plan, Congress would provide $10 million annually with the funds allocated to the states on a matching basis to buy the scenic easements. In such purchases the state, in effect, buys the beauty of a piece of land, leaving the ownership intact and the land on the tax rolls. Owners would waive forever the right to build homes, commercial buildings or billboards on the property or to change the physical appearance of the land.

Nelson said his proposal was supported by the governors of Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Maine, Nevada, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oregon and West Virginia.

Good Snow for Skiing Reported

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Go north, young man. In fact, that advice is good for anybody looking for natural snow for skiing in Wisconsin.

The snow depth at Park Falls, according to the Weather Bureau, was 10 inches today. Thirteen inches were recorded in the Superior-Duluth area. The Wausau region had 3 inches of snow on the ground and Eau Claire 2 inches.

Southern and most western points had no snow on the ground.

Again, Upper Michigan offered more of the white stuff, with Houghton measuring 17 inches and Marquette 13.

Welfare Workers, City Reach Accord In New York Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — City and union officials were reported today to have reached terms for possible settlement of a strike by city welfare workers which has cut off all but emergency welfare aid.

The two unions involved called membership meetings tonight to vote on the proposed formula. Details were not disclosed.

The strike was called five days ago in defiance of the state's Condon-Wadlin Act, which bans strikes by public employees, and was continued in the face of a court injunction.

Padrutt Remains On State PSC

MADISON (AP) — Arthur L. Padrutt was re-appointed to the State Public Service Commission today by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The former senator and assemblyman from Chippewa Falls will serve until March, 1969 in the $15,000 a year job. Padrutt came to the Legislature as a Progressive. He later joined the Republican party.

The 47-year-old commissioner was originally appointed in 1956 by former Gov. Walter Kohler. His first term expired in 1963, but the Republican controlled Senate refused to confirm a successor named by former Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds and Padrutt stayed on.

Liz Tries to Give Up Her Citizenship

PARIS (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor has attempted to renounce her American citizenship and sources here said today the action is pending.

The informants, who refused to be identified by name, said the London-born actress had planned to adopt British nationality. Her husband, actor Richard Burton, is a British citizen.

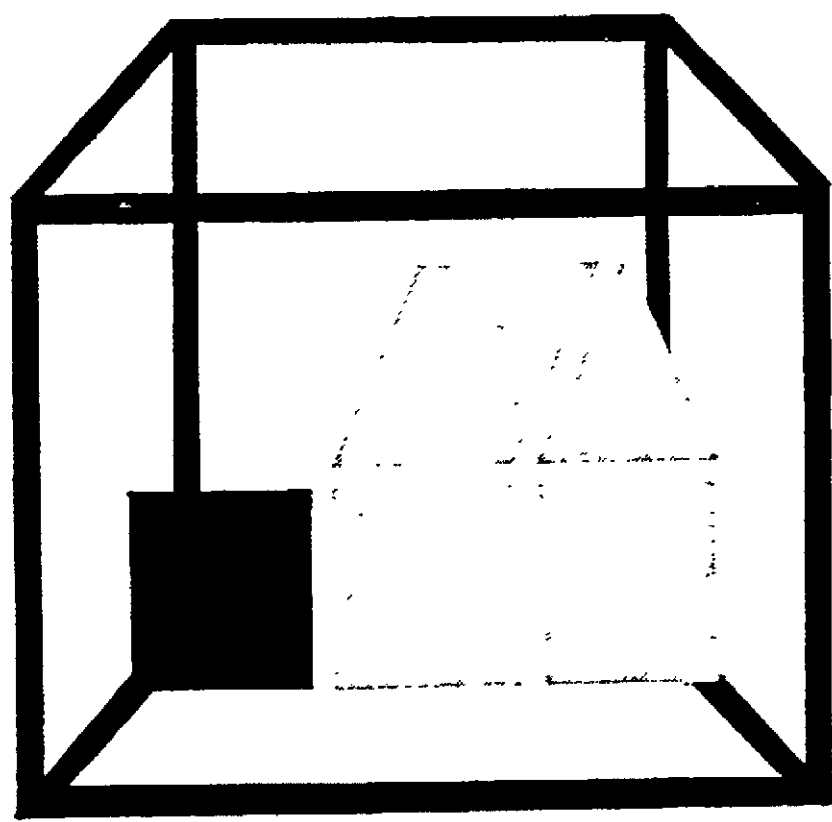

The sources said Miss Taylor attempted one formal renunciation during the filming of a new movie in Paris last October but balked at the phrases "Abjure all allegiance and fidelity to the United States," a mandatory part of the oath of renunciation.

Miss Taylor later was advised that the renunciation was invalid since the phrase to which she objected was deleted.

Federal Funds Hike Fremont Library Budget

Money Will be Used To Purchase Costly Reference Books

FREMONT — The Fremont Public Library will be operating on an increased budget this year with the major part of the monies received from the federal grant which was given to the Fox Valley Library Association after its application for federal funds.

Mrs. Walter Neuschafer is in charge of the library started here in December, 1937 by the Wolf River American Legion Post Auxiliary. It is classed as a Library Service Outlet and qualifies for the federal aid because the appropriation made locally is above that of 1963.

The federal allotment will be a minimum of $350 but may be over $500. From Waupaca County, which contributes annually, $187.50 is expected and the village council Tuesday evening appropriated $100.

Federal Money
Mrs. Neuschafer said the federal money will be received before June and must be used for books. She has designated them primarily for the more expensive reference type editions which the local library does not have. The remaining funds will be used to increase the cabinet area.

Ronald Abbott, chairman of the village board civic improvement committee, and Mrs. Neuschafer will submit plans for library rearrangement in the council room of the village hall to the village board for approval.

Royalty Set For Sno-Ball At Marion

MARION — Royalty has been selected for the annual Sno-Ball scheduled Saturday night in the high school gym.

Herb Kitzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Kitzman, route 2, here because of the numerous Tigerton, was picked by the school's student body to reign as king. He chose Connie Kussman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kussman, route 1, here as his queen.

Class representatives to be court are Lery Mielke and Faye Tuss, seniors; William Hensell and Linda Sanders, juniors; Ronald Schew and Linda Gross-koff, sophomores; and Tom Brandenberg and Dawn Zillmer, freshmen.

The semi-formal event is sponsored by the high school Girls Athletic Association.

4-Year University Called Inevitable By Legislators

GREEN BAY — A four-year university in northeastern Wisconsin is "inevitable" and should not be approached from a partisan point of view, according to Brown County's four state legislators.

State Sen.-Elect Robert Warren, and Assemblymen Jerome Quinn, Lawrence Kafka, and Cleatus VanderPerren met with Meyer Cohen for a briefing on the proposed school. Cohen, a Green Bay attorney, is a member of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents and the coordinating committee for higher education.

The four legislators said in a joint statement, "We hope to achieve broad support for a bill presently proposed which will appropriate $1.7 million for initial planning."

This is the amount recommended by the regents so the school here could be in operation by 1969. The amount was approved in the state and many private colleges building commission's budget after Gov. Warren Knowles said both the college and the student the university matter should be a comprehensive description of the concern of the legislature.

Waupaca Couple Praise Appleton's Business District in Fan Letter

The City of Appleton got a fan letter recently.

In it, Mr. and Mrs. Herwin R. Winters of route 1, Waupaca, praised the city's business district.

The letter was sent to Harland Bartholmew and Associates, a St. Louis consulting firm preparing a comprehensive plan for Appleton.

Nicest Can Get
"It was one of the nicest letters a city can get," observed Jack Alston, the planning consultant.

Mr. and Mrs. Winters apparently decided to tell what they liked or disliked about Appleton although not receiving one of the central business district survey forms distributed in December.

About 1,000 forms were hand-

New London Crews Burning Diseased Elm Trees in Park

Fear Fungus Has Spread to Other Areas of City

NEW LONDON — The city street department is removing and burning 25 to 30 trees infected with Dutch Elm disease, Director of Public Works Ray Pelishek said Thursday.

All the trees found infected are located in Hatten Memorial Park, Pelishek said. He said a park board meeting would be called to discuss the matter.

An ordinance will probably be proposed for control of the disease, he said.

The 25 to 30 trees in the park are the only ones that city officials know of that are infected by the fungus, but they fear the disease has spread throughout the city.

Pelishek said Dutch Elm is a fungus spread by bark beetles or through the root system if trees grow closely together.

Bark beetles have been at work here because of the numerous holes they have bored into the infected wood, he said.

Pelishek said the disease was first reported in Waupaca County in 1963 and without any control of the fungus 65 per cent of all elm trees would be dead by 1971.

Two years ago two diseased trees were found in the park by Ronald Schew, a county forester. At that time he, sophomores, and Tom Brandenberg and Dawn Zillmer, destroyed.

Pelishek said no reports of infected trees have been received other than in the park. He said no inspection of trees has been made because there is not a city forester and no present city employee is qualified to diagnose the fungus.

North Central Balks at Moving to New Airport

4,000 Workers Will Launch St. Elizabeth Drive Sunday

$1.2 Million Sought From General Public for $7.3 Million Project

A house-to-house campaign to raise $1.2 million for St. Elizabeth Hospital and Medical Center begins Sunday.

More than 4,000 workers will call on about 40,000 families in the Fox Valley area. The drive, to be completed in about a week, is the climax of more than six months of organization work.

An open house-rally will be held at Xavier High School commons in Appleton from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday at which volunteer workers will get final instructions and materials. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Principal aim of the expansion and remodeling project is to provide greatly increased diagnostic and treatment facilities for the Fox Valley area. Construction work started last June and will be completed in 1967. The original hospital building, erected in 1900, will be razed and replaced. Complete renovation of the main building constructed in 1924 will provide air conditioning throughout, private lavatories, improved lighting and modernization of many hospital services. New wings are being added to the east and south.

Expand Services
Another 100 beds will be added, bringing total bed capacity to 300, but the main goals are to expand overloaded existing services, such as the psychiatric section, and provide space and equipment for many diagnostic and treatment procedures not now available anywhere in the area.

The entire project will cost about $7.3 million. The advanced gifts drive and the house-to-house campaign are expected to provide about $2 million. About $2.9 million is on hand from an earlier drive and other sources, and another $2.3 million will be borrowed.

William H. Pifer, chairman of the hospital's finance committee and coordinator of the fund campaign, says the new medical center will attract specialists of many types so that only in rare instances will it be necessary for people to travel far from home to receive the medical care they require.

Run by Volunteers
The entire fund campaign is being organized and run on a volunteer basis. Other campaign officials are John Hayes, general chairman; John Lally and Jack MacDonald, co-chairmen.

Clintonville Store Owner Incorporates With Two Employees

CLINTONVILLE — Lester Osterloth's Keenway Super Market, 153 S. Main St., was incorporated this week with Osterloth and two of his employees as the stockholders.

Osterloth is the founder of the 30-year-old food store. Now sharing ownership with him are Anthony Henn, an employee for 21 years, and Calvin Roloff, an 11-year employee. The new firm will be known as Les's Keenway Super Market, Inc.

At the same time, Spice criticized the wage plan which cut overtime pay for his investigators and requires them to take time off if they are required to work overtime. Spice said without additional men, he very likely "will have more men off than I will have on."

The county's courts and administration committee today is debating Spice's request to hire uniformed policemen for the sheriff's department and hire an additional man who would serve summons.

Spice said Undersheriff Norbert Marx works as a process server and is being paid $510 per month for the task. If a process server is hired at $375 Spice said, Marx would be free to serve as a county investigator. Marx is a retired Appleton police detective.

Spice quoted reports of a Chicago-based efficiency firm which, after a study of Outagamie County's law enforcement program, described it as "skimpy" and "inadequate."

The Jacobs Co. had recommended the traffic department be consolidated under control of the sheriff, or, if that were not possible, that one county board committee administer both departments, Spice said.

Separate Unit
The county sheriff's department is a separate unit from the county traffic patrol. Spice has some control over the men of the traffic patrol only because they are appointed deputies and may be used in emergencies.

Members of the courts and administration committee are not expected to act immediately on the request for uniformed manpower, but are expected to

New Ruling Won't Affect Airline Stand

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

North Central Airlines apparently has no intentions to serve the Fox Cities at the new Outagamie County Airport.

Should the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) or the United States Court of Appeals set back the effective date of the CAB order which terminates North Central service to the Fox Cities, airline officials have no intention of using the new airport.

Ask Stay Order

The CAB, in its November decision, reversed the recommendations of its examiner and ordered that Fox Cities service be combined with Oshkosh by the fire and police commission at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 20, at the city hall. They must be between Jan. 25 at 12:01 a.m. North Central already has notified its personnel at the Outagamie airport of its intention to abandon service at that time.

However, Appleton and Outagamie County have filed a petition in which they asked the CAB to reconsider its decision and to grant a stay order on the effective date of terminating Fox Cities airline service.

Outagamie County has requested a two or three-year stay. However, sources close to the CAB in Washington feel that if the stay is granted, it would be only for six months to one year.

The new Outagamie County Airport has been completed and a terminal building is ready for use.

Officials of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) will be in Appleton Monday to make a final inspection of the new airport. When they give their approval Outagamie County intends to transfer operations from the old airport. In fact,

Spice Criticizes New County Salary Plan

Sheriff Requests More Uniformed Deputies and Process Server

Adoption by county supervisors of a salary wage adjustment plan "knocked county law enforcement in the head," in the words of Outagamie County Sheriff Calvin Spice.

Spice Thursday formally requested additional uniformed deputies and a process server for his department to provide around-the-clock police protection.

At the same time, Spice criticized the wage plan which cut overtime pay for his investigators and requires them to take time off if they are required to work overtime. Spice said without additional men, he very likely "will have more men off than I will have on."

Two Charged In Green Bay Armed Robbery

Accused of Taking $15,550 Dec. 7 From Montgomery Wards

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Two Milwaukee area men, charged in the $15,550 armed robbery of the Montgomery Ward store Dec. 7, were ordered bound over for trial following a preliminary hearing in Brown County Court Branch 2 Thursday.

Judge James W. Byers set Jan. 14 for the filing of the information containing the armed robbery counts against Gordon James, 26, Milwaukee and Ralph T. Gruender, 31, Delafield.

A third man charged in the robbery, Richard Wilson Holliday, 32, Milwaukee, was released Thursday morning after charges against him were dropped for lack of sufficient evidence. Dane County authorities are expected to pick Holliday up today from the Brown County jail to take him to Madison where warrants await him on charges of armed robbery, armed burglary, auto theft and kidnapping.

Positive Identification
Dist. Atty. Robert Rahr Flatley called eight Montgomery Ward employees to the stand during the preliminary hearing to tell of the events of the morning of Dec. 7 when two men held more than 20 employees at bay while they took cash, checks and merchandise from the store.

All the witnesses made positive identifications of James and Gruender as the men who were in the store.
James K. Moe, the assistant manager of the store at 421 Main St., told the court he arrived at work about 7:30 a.m. and entered the store through a rear door at the loading dock.
The first thing Moe noticed was six employees, sitting in the shipping dock office with their hands taped in a praying position. He was then confronted by a Negro wearing sun glasses and holding a gun who told him "Get back in the room or I'll blow your head off."

Moe then said he was ordered from the office by a white man who he identified as Gruender, and told to open the store safe.
The assistant manager went to the store office with Gruender and attempted to open the main safe, but could not. He then opened a second safe containing bags of rolled coins. When Gruender took Moe back to the shipping dock, James was intercepting each employee as he entered, and herded him to the dock office.

Milton Bergstrand, the store manager, took the stand and told the court that he encountered the Negro with a gun when he entered. Gruender took the manager where he opened the main safe containing cash and check from the cash register receipts from the day before.

Coin Rolls Marked
Bergstrand estimated that $15,550 was taken from the store including $9,500 in cash, $4,300 in checks, and $1,750 in merchandise including guns and clothing. He said the coins taken in the robbery were wrapped in paper rolls, some of which were marked.

Following the testimony of the store managers, six other employees took the stand to corroborate the identifications of James and Gruender as the men in the store.

A third man was reportedly involved in the robbery, but he stayed outside in a car during most of the action, and made only one brief appearance in the store. None of the employees were able to make a positive identification of this man.
James and Gruender are being held under $15,000 bond in the Brown County jail pending trial.

Hayes said industry and business have contributed substantially in service and materials. In addition to money, in recognition of the need for expanded medical services in the Fox Valley area.

"We are hopeful," he said, "that the general public, too, will see its responsibility and do something about it. Pledges can be spread over five years and contributors can set up any type of payment plan convenient to them."

Speel School Dispute to End With Auction

A two-year dispute over the disposition of Speel School has been settled out of court and the school will be up for auction sometime in the spring.

An agreement by the four school boards involved to give the well, pump, shed over the pump and flagpole to John Welhouse Sr., present owner of the property, under a compromise plan brought a solution to the long-standing problem.

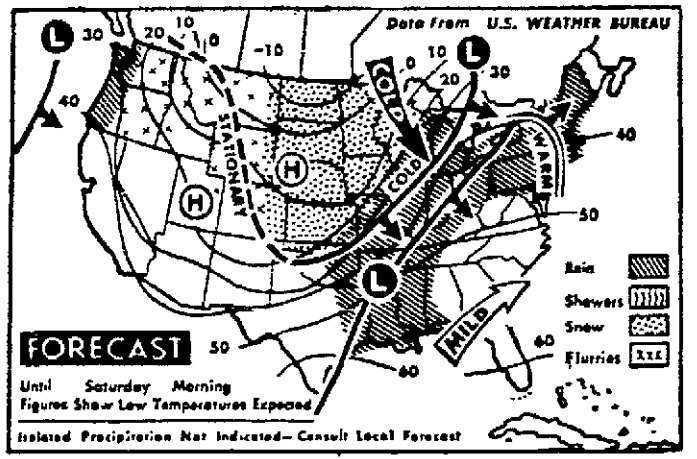

The one-room school has been split since its district was split four ways and the portion containing the building was attached to the Appleton school district in July of 1962.

Reversionary Clause

The decision by the Appleton school board not to use the building for school purposes brought into effect a reversionary clause in the deed providing that the land revert to the last owner if he properly ceased to be used for school purposes.

Welhouse, the previous owner, claimed the building should revert back along with the land, and the apportionment board representing the four school boards — Appleton, Kimberly, Kaukauna and Wrightstown — disagreed. Two auctions scheduled for the building and contents were called off, the second by a court injunction, in December of 1962, and the matter was placed on the circuit court calendar.

Last fall Welhouse proposed fire Association will meet at 2 to settle the matter if the school districts would turn over to him. Originally set for Jan. 12, the pump, swings and flagpole, and meeting was re-scheduled because of conflict with the building is removed.

North Central Won't Move to New Airport

the county presently is trying to sell the old airport land.

Despite this, a North Central officer told the Post-Crescent Thursday:

"Even if the stay is granted, we intend to maintain our operations at the present Outagamie County Airport."

"We have no intentions of transferring equipment to the new airport," he said, "because it would be too costly an operation and it would involve the training of new personnel."

"Doing Nothing"

He also said the airline "has done nothing and has no intention of doing anything" to get the CAB to change its decision on the abandonment of service to the Fox Cities at the Outagamie County Airport.

"We intend to continue serving Appleton," he said, "and we will do it at the Oshkosh airport."

In a related development, John Conway, vice president of Fox Cities Airlines, wrote to Allan Boyd, CAB chairman, asking for assurance that if and when North Central discontinues service to the Fox Cities, the Fox Cities Airlines.

much, but multiplied by thousands of families it spells the kind of money we need," he said.

The expansion project has received the endorsement of the Outagamie County Medical and Dental societies. Drive workers have been recruited from among those of many religious faiths in the Fox Cities and nearby urban and rural areas.

The drive has been set up on an area and ward basis. In Appleton, Roy Rickert is chairman of Area 1 and 16th Ward, and his ward captains are Ronald Geiger, 19th; Gerald Romanesko, 18th; Donald Genge and Ted Moder, 17th; Clyde Stephenson, 15th, and Lyman B. Clark and George Karras, 14th.

Final Check Set for New Port Monday

Officials of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) and the Wisconsin State Aeronautics Commission will come to Appleton Monday to make a final inspection of the new Outagamie County Airport in the Town of Greenville.

According to county Supv. Mark Catlin (Appleton 7), chairman of the county airport committee, the FAA and state officials will land planes at the new airport.

The inspection is expected to result in final government approval of the airport. The approval is necessary before operations officially can be transferred from the old airport to the new.

Catlin also said today that word is expected by the end of this week from the Civil Aeronautics Bureau (CAB) on the county's petition for reconsideration of the recent CAB ruling on North Central Airlines regional airport stops.

The CAB said Fox Cities service should be transferred from the Outagamie airport and combined with North Central service at the Winnebago County Airport in Oshkosh.

If the CAB refused the request for a rehearing, Outagamie County plans an appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Coroner's Jury Asks Youth be Held for Murder

CHICAGO (AP) — A Cook County coroner's jury recommended Thursday that Harrison Crouse, 18, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering his parents and sister.

In their verdict, the jurors held that the victims came to their deaths as the result of bullets from "a rifle held in hands of Harrison Crouse."

The University of Illinois student already had been charged with slaying his father, Morris, 48; his mother, Norma, 48, and his sister, Sally, 16, in their home in suburban Wilmette Saturday.

The inquest session had these highlights:

Major Winter Storms Shaping In Plains Area

Gulf, Arctic Air Collision Should Set Off Blizzards

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain and snow hit wide areas of the nation today and a major winter storm appeared shaping up in the central Plains.

The Weather Bureau reported a clash of record breaking warm moist air from the Gulf of Mexico and arctic air moving southward through the Dakotas will set off blizzard conditions.

Readings were in the 60s and 70s in parts of Kansas and Missouri Thursday as unseasonably mild weather covered the central Plains and the middle Mississippi Valley. Record high marks for Jan. 7 were reported in several cities.

Arctic-Tropic Range

The Weather Bureau said the temperature contrast between Kansas and North Dakota was similar to one normally reported between the tropics and the arctic. The temperature range early today between Manhattan, Kan., and Dickinson, N.D., a distance of 600 miles, was 70 degrees. It was 63 in Manhattan and 7 below zero in Dickinson.

Cold wave warnings were issued for sections of the Plains from eastern Wyoming across Nebraska and South Dakota eastward through western and northern Minnesota, northwestern Iowa and into western and central sections of Kansas.

Snow blanketed the southern Rockies. Two inches of snow fell in the Flagstaff, Ariz., area and Craig, Colo. Heavy snow was indicated across the mountain areas of New Mexico.

Drizzle Rain

Showers broke out in advance of the mild air during the night. Drizzle and light rain dampened the upper Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes region. Freezing drizzle pelted the cold sections of Minnesota and the Dakotas. Rain and snow fell in scattered sections in eastern areas.

In the Far West snow flurries flecked areas in the Pacific Northwest but dry weather prevailed across most of the storm and flood stricken areas in California and Oregon.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 19 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont., to 69 at Key West, Fla.

Argonne Scientist To Lecture at 6th University Session

Dr. Charles J. Delbecq, senior scientist in the Solid State Science division at Argonne National Laboratory, will present the sixth lecture in the 1964-65 Lawrence University Science Colloquium at 3 p.m. Friday in Youngchild Hall. His topic is "Trapped Electrons and Holes in KCl-Ag Crystals."

The time is a change from the originally announced time of 4:30 p.m. The time was changed, because a memorial service for Prof. Arthur C. Denney late of the Lawrence faculty, will be held at 3 p.m.

Dr. Delbecq has a Ph. D. in chemistry from the University of Illinois, and has been at Argonne since 1949. He is senior scientist, the top rank a scientist can hold there. Dr. Delbecq has published about 30 papers in the solids field. He is known internationally for work in the study of defects in crystals.

During 1961, he spent a year doing research at the Physikalisches Institut der Technischen Hochschule in Stuttgart, Germany, working in the laboratory of Prof. H. Pick.

According to Dr. Fred Phelps, assistant Lawrence physics professor, Dr. Delbecq's lecture will be introductory, rather than technical.

The speech topic has been described: "After an introduction to the field of color centers in the alkali halides, a specific system — silver doped potassium chlorate — will be discussed. Correlation of the optical and electron spin resonance measurements on such centers as Cl2-Ag, and A will be considered. In conclusion results of luminescence and glow peaks measurements will be presented."

There will be a coffee hour preceding the talk, at 2:30 p.m. The lecture is open to the public.

Green Bay Girl Killed When Car Plows Into Tree

GREEN BAY — A west side girl, riding in a car with three other teen-agers, was killed last night when the car struck a tree on the Humboldt Road near the Stratosphere Supper Club.

Seventeen-year-old Lynn M. Knudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Knudson, 904 Liberty St., was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Vincent Hospital about 10 p.m.

Her companions in the car also were taken to St. Vincent Hospital and were reported in serious condition this morning.

Judge Keller on Panel For Safety Conference

Outagamie County Judge Gustave Keller, Appleton, will be a member of a panel discussion on handling juvenile offenders in traffic courts during the 23rd Wisconsin Mid-Winter Safety Conference and Exposition in Milwaukee Jan. 20-22.

Judge Keller's appearance will be during the traffic discussions Friday morning. He is the only representative from the Fox River Valley participating in the program.

The Federal Judgeship

All of the nominations are now in for candidates for the federal judgeship in western Wisconsin—a position which has been vacant at least technically for over two years. This is the seat to which David Rabinowitz of Sheboygan was appointed by both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, but both times he failed to win confirmation by the U. S. Senate.

It is now certain that President Johnson will not appoint Rabinowitz again. But it is extremely important for the administration of federal justice in this state that the post be filled immediately, and with a candidate who has sufficient stature to command the respect of the Senate.

Apparently the problem is that there are two Democratic attorneys extremely interested in the appointment, former Governor John Reynolds and Attorney James Doyle of Madison. Senator Nelson side-stepped a choice between the two and recommended them both for the job.

State of the Union—II

President Johnson said that to a large extent today the state of the union depends upon the state of the world. But while he dealt at length and in considerable detail with his massive domestic legislative program, he gave little attention to how the United States is to face the challenges of world problems.

There was in the President's mien and attitude an obvious effort to appear firm and determined but fatherly toward the other peoples of the world. His was clearly the position of the parent, kindly but requiring certain standards of behavior. Probably the strongest item from this point of view was the President's obvious understanding that freedom must be defended and his clear intention to defend it.

The President's invitation to the "leaders" of Russia, whoever they may be, to visit this country came as something of a surprise. He suggested more open television viewing between the two nations and there was even the hint that he might consider a visit to Russia himself if there was a reciprocal invitation.

There was also a philosophic touch that may explain in part why the Democrats so badly defeated the Republicans last November. Although President Johnson is anything but an accomplished speaker, when he spoke of the ability of the American people to meet challenges both at home and abroad because they are restless, free, growing and full of hope," he pinpointed characteristics that are and have been peculiarly American throughout our history.

Now the State Bar of Wisconsin has compiled a list of nine candidates it recommends. Doyle's name appears on this list, but Reynolds' does not. The bar committee explained it considered Reynolds a resident of Green Bay and therefore he did not live in the federal court district. Prior to their recommendations, however, Reynolds had announced he was taking up permanent residence in Madison and would not return to Green Bay, a decision probably dictated by the possibility of the court appointment.

Reports from Washington are that President Johnson is reluctant to support Reynolds for the job because he considers Reynolds essentially a "Kennedy man."

The Post-Crescent has no objection if the post goes to a man Johnson considers a good loyal Democrat. We would hope he would be a competent and qualified man in addition. But mainly we would like to see the matter resolved so that the business of the court can be resumed.

The emphasis of the President upon domestic programs and the bare skimming of the foreign problems we face gave the impression that President Johnson does not consider the various upheavals in the world today as very serious. He may be right; there is no major war nor even the imminent threat of one.

And yet the avoidance of coming to grips with the foreign issues may also be the result of confusion over exactly what to do. There was no pattern given for winning the war in Viet Nam although the President said "we will not break" the pledge we made ten years ago to help against Communist aggression. There was no discussion of how we are to fulfill Secretary Rusk's earlier promise that we would hold the Congolese rebels responsible for atrocities against Americans. And while the lure of increased trade with the Eastern European satellites as well as the Soviet Union—sort of a reward to the "good" Communist countries—may serve to help split the Communist empire, it is unlikely that it will have much effect upon the emerging societies of Africa and Asia.

If the State of the Union address sets the tenor for the President's plans, we must assume that our major role in world affairs is to set an example of stability, progress and a new awareness of the responsibility of our freedom to the other people of the world. And perhaps this is the best road to take.

New Look at the Farm Problem

President Johnson made only a brief reference in his State of the Union address to what is certainly one of the major continuing problems of a domestic nature in the nation. He had, said the President, instructed Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to "lead a major effort to find new approaches to reduce the heavy cost of our farm program and to direct more of our effort to the small farmer who needs help most."

And yet, in an article in a current issue of Saturday Review, Kermit Gordon, director of the Bureau of the Budget and a former member of the Council of Economic Advisors, points out that it may be that help to these smaller farmers should be of a welfare nature rather than part of an agricultural program.

Gordon points out that the aim of our agricultural subsidies, adopted in the 30's, was as "a relief measure designed to prevent the literal collapse of the farm economy." During World War II and the Korean conflict, they acted as a stimulus for needed production increases.

But since the end of the Korean War, the subsidies have been "used primarily to counteract the price-and-income depressing effects of the increase in farm productivity," an effort to keep farm incomes somewhat comparable to those in other fields of labor and business.

Gordon then points out what the revolution in farm technology has done to farming. Of some 3 1/2 million farms in the nation in 1963, one million had cash receipts of over $10,000 but these more prosperous farms provided 80 per cent of the sales of farm products. And Gordon figures that 80 per cent of the federal assistance goes to those million farmers while the remaining 20 per cent goes to the farmers who are really in serious financial straits.

Statistics do not tell the whole story including how many in the lower income brackets are part-time farmers. But as Gordon says, the farms which produce most of our produce are not in "the lowest one-third of the nation's income distribution. Most are successful business firms." Continued subsidies on the present scale may be important to the economy of the successful farmers—and certainly they will so claim. But it can't be argued that our farm subsidies do much for the poverty-stricken farmers. Instead, as Gordon suggests, any federal assistance to them should involve the "painful transition to nonfarm jobs."

Meanwhile our reclamation program seeks still to develop arid lands of the West for agricultural purposes—although agricultural surplus is one of our major problems. And although the crops raised through subsidized irrigation projects may not always be the same as those the government tries to limit through payments for non-growing, "increased production of one crop tends to aggravate the surplus situation of other crops."

Every president and Congress for the last several decades has sought to make sense of the agricultural subsidies which have grown like Topsy and appear about as confused. We don't expect President Johnson to make the program sound and sensible and fair to all. But the point of view of Mr. Gordon about the changing nature of farming in the United States today we certainly hope will be seriously considered by Mr. Freeman and the Congress.

Crescent's Political Bias Shows

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 7, 1864.

A terrific conflict is going on at Appleton among the aspirants for the post office there. Among the number is F. J. Jackson, who was "always a Democrat" until Democrats lost their power of appointing postmasters.—Milwaukee News.

Guess not! We didn't see him in the ranks in 1860, and are quite sure that he was reported among the "missing" in a previous engagement. It is singular but true that all the brains in the "Ethiopian" party of Wisconsin are furnished by renegade Democrats, men who for the hope of gain or preferment stifle their consciences and strike hands with a class of unrighteous politicians who have labored for a quarter of a century to destroy our free systems of government and raise their unholy hands against the very pillars of liberty, while all the time crying out for the enlargement of a servile race.

It will take more than government appointments to silence the consciences of some of our old political associates who are now apologists for Lincolnism and who today enjoy no inherent or constitutional right or privilege save at the will of the vasculating, law-breaking Executive (President Lincoln) of their own creation.

But back to the P. O. Scramble—Aid. Jackson carries two-thirds of the Republicans of the city on his petition, while Postmaster Robinson is backed up by the Presidential Elector, who successfully raffled for the position of messenger to Washington by local government officeholders, with whom rotation in office is by no means popular, by the Congress-elect and Postmasters generally.

Red Chinese Mig Jet Fighters Flying Patrol Over Viet Nam

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

Red Chinese-piloted Mig-21 jet fighters are now flying patrols over the Gulf of Tonkin and North Viet Nam.

That is the latest foreboding development since the sudden appearance of sizable flights of these latest-model Russian-type combat planes in this weeks ago.

None of the speedy and powerfully-armed Mig-21s have yet been sighted over Communist-imperiled South Viet Nam or adjoining Laos.

As reported to Washington authorities by U. S. Air and Naval forces, the patrolling Mig-21s are based on Hainan Island, in the Gulf of Tonkin off the southern tip of Red China and opposite the center of North Viet Nam's long coastline.

Usual route of the Red Chinese patrols is as follows:

From airfields in southeastern Hainan, the Mig-21s fly west across Tonkin Gulf to Long Hoi, on the southern coast of North Viet Nam and near the northern boundary of South Viet Nam. From there the patrols head north to office; but the "wires are down" or the "train is off the track" because his appointment does not come!

25 YEARS AGO -
Friday, Jan. 5, 1940

Anthony E. Madler took over his duties as Chilton Kiwanis Club president at installation ceremonies at Chilton Hotel. He succeeded F. F. Schlosser. Other officers were Howard Schuch, vice president and William N. Kauf, who returned to the secretaryship he had held for many years.

The program committee for the Ladies Aid Society of First English Lutheran Church, Appleton, included Mrs. Ray DeLong, Mrs. Walter Plamann, Mrs. Carl Hanson, Mrs. C. H. Huesemann and Mrs. Gordon Larsen.

Three Appleton students at the University of Wisconsin and other members of the campus Wesley Foundation, were to present the Sunday service at First Methodist Church, Waupaca. They were Wesley Schroeder, Bernard Hassijke and Sidney Ottman.

10 YEARS AGO
Friday, Jan. 7, 1955.

The Appleton chapter of the Green Bay Diocesan Council for Catholic Nurses was organized that week at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Mrs. Anthony Skarvan, president of the Green Bay Council assisted with the organization. Elected officers of the Appleton area chapter were Miss Lada Butler, Appleton, chairman, Miss Constance St. Aubin, Little Chute, vice chairman; Miss Veronica Buchman, Hortonville, secretary; Miss Carol Haessly, Kaukauna, treasurer, and Miss Bernadine Reinke, Kaukauna, board member.

Bernard Bloch, secretary-treasurer of Appleton Laborers Local 931, AFL, was elected president of the Wisconsin State Laborers Conference at a meeting in Milwaukee.

Opening winners in the Tam O'Shanter Women's Curling Club games for the Spector trophy were the Helen McCormack rink, Betty Leinwander and Kate Evans rinks. The three losers were the Iretta Wendschuh, Gerrie LaBore and Bea Evans quartets.

Hanoi, capital of North Viet Nam, where they refuel. Then heading south, they again traverse Tonkin gulf to their home bases on Hainan.

From verifications by U. S. aerial reconnaissance, including pilotless planes, intelligence estimates that Red China now has between 70 and 100 Mig-21s in this region.

In addition to those operating from Hainan Island, these latest-model Communist jet fighters have been sighted on airfields in four other locations—one in North Viet Nam, at Hanoi; the three others in China, at Nanning, Chinghai and Mengtzu, not far from North Viet Nam's border.

Largest number of these Mig-21s, estimated around 50, have been spotted on China's Hainan Island.

It also has been definitely established that these Mig-21s are piloted by Red Chinese. This has been fully authenticated by recordings of messages and other conversations by the pilots.

FATEFUL UNCERTAINTY
But still very much in the dark is what happens next—particularly whether these new jet fighters portend Red China's direct intervention in the protracted South Viet Nam conflict.

Some intelligence authorities are strongly convinced of that. In support of this view, they cite the following:

Disposition of the Mig-21s and Red China's other air strength definitely indicates readiness to intervene. Regular North Viet Nam ground forces, up to regimental units, are positively known to be in South Viet Nam. In recent weeks, these North Viet Nam troops have been increasingly used in combat.

They carried the brunt of the fighting at Binh Gia, where the South Vietnamese and U. S. advisers suffered their biggest losses to date.

In the opinion of these intelligence experts, the next likely move will be Peking's use of its jet fighters to provide the North Viet Nam regulars with air support—which the Communists have totally lacked in this struggle so far.

This dire development would immediately confront the U. S. with decisions of supremest import.

President Johnson would have to decide how far he is prepared to go to make good the ringing pronouncement in his State of the Union message Monday night of this week.

"Twice in one generation we have had to fight against aggression in the Far East. To ignore aggression would only increase the danger of a larger war. What is at stake (in South Viet Nam) is the cause of freedom. In that cause we shall never be found wanting."

WHERE'D THEY GET THEM
The jolting discovery that Red China has acquired Mig-21s has caused deep perturbation in State Department and Central Intelligence Agency quarters.

Both have policy papers asserting (1) Russia halted all military aid to Peking in 1961 when the long-smoldering ideological feud broke into the open; (2) no Mig-21s have ever been supplied the Chinese; (3) the latter's air force has deteriorated in the last few years.

Since the appearance of Chinese-piloted Mig-21s in the inflamed Viet Nam area, debate has raged among administration policy-makers over their origin.

State Department and CIA officials are inclined to the view that these latest-model jet fighters are being produced in China. Military experts sharply question this theory. In refutation they cite the following two significant factors:

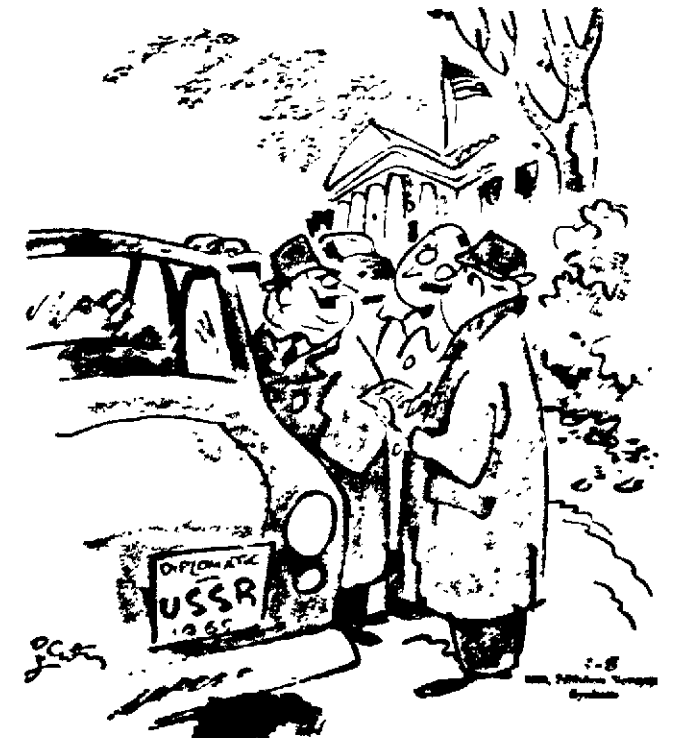

(1) There is no "firm" information or evidence that Red China has plants capable of manufacturing Mig-21s. (2) Principal sources of the reports that these combat planes are being made in China are Hong Kong and New Delhi, where Communist agents are notoriously active.

The skeptical military officials also contend the reports of the Mig-21s' being produced in China were "leaked" by Communist sources, and so timed as to coincide with the appearance of these planes in the South Viet Nam region.

Prior to the sighting of the Mig-21s, the jet fighter strength of Red China was calculated by the CIA as between 1,750 and 2,000 planes, including approximately 100 Mig-19s. The others were Mig-17s and Mig-15s, now rated as obsolescent.

Knowles' Inaugural Address Follows in Traditional Pattern

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—If any reasonably attentive Wisconsin voter had heard Gov. Knowles' inaugural speech this week without knowing its authorship, he could well have assumed that it was the message of one of the two previous Democratic chief executives of the state.

It is no discredit to the new Republican leader of the state government to observe that the major keynotes of his altogether dignified and realistic inaugural speech were those that had also been Govs. Gaylord Nelson and John Reynolds before him. The speech included candid appeals for bipartisan cooperation in a legislature which has the power to foil his designs and for public understanding that the cost of government is rising whatever any governor can do about it, and whatever any politician might have said in the heat and the anxiety of the campaign for votes during the election seasons.

To some degree the theme of nonpartisanship on such occasions is traditional. To some degree all men respond to the majesty of the occasion. Taking the oath as the chief executive officer of a government serving four million people is an awesome thing for anybody with any sensibilities about the grandeur of the democratic system of government.

CONCILIATION PRACTICAL
But in the more immediate and practical sense, the note of conciliation that ran through the Knowles speech was required by the exigencies of his situation. He can be no more certain of the good will or the cooperation of the Democratic majority in the Assembly or of Democratic Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, than could Gaylord Nelson or John Reynolds be sure when they were installed in their offices and confronted Republican legislative veto potentialities in 1959 and 1963.

Indeed, the aggressive attitude of the Democratic State Committee only a few hours after the Knowles' inaugural speech indicated that Democratic support of Knowles' program will be cautious and reluctant, at best. Already the Democrats are talking about "pressures" upon the Republican administration for their own policy ends. This indicates that Knowles will be required to beat them to the initiative in presenting bills and propositions.

THE MAIN THEME

As it touched in a glancing way upon the current state political issues, the Knowles speech disclosed nothing that had not been made known during his campaign and during his post-election statements of recent weeks.

His main purpose during his first term, as he had so abundantly declared before, will be a campaign for industrial expansion within the state. To say that he has such a goal is a good deal easier than to prescribe the methods for attaining it. Here will doubtless come the first serious test of the Democrats' willingness to work with the Republican executive office, for inherently involved in the question is taxation policy.

Basically the Knowles speech was designed to remind the hard-core conservatives whose campaign muscle was so essential to the Knowles vote drive that whatever they may wish, and whatever he may have shown that he wishes, an actual cutback in the cost of state government is not possible. The effort must be to reduce the rate of acceleration, on the one hand, and to enrich the tax base to support the inevitable demands for yet more state treasury tax income, as the new Republican attitude in state politics can be defined on the basis of this performance.

Some of the Knowles' post-election statements have brought tremors of alarm in powerful special interest circles—and notably in the higher education administration. It is worth noticing here that the new governor pointedly endorsed the idea that every high school graduate should have an opportunity for further education. But he also made it clear, once again, that such post-high school opportunity should not be limited to liberal arts education.

Here's Why Sartre Refused Nobel Prize

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is nearly impossible to understand someone else doing what we cannot imagine ourselves, in any circumstances, doing. This is why the world was so baffled last month, when Jean-Paul Sartre refused the Nobel Prize for these views, there is an honesty, consistency and authenticity about them so far removed from the mixed and shabby motives of the ordinary person that we are compelled, in psychological self-defense, to impugn his motives and seek for some subtle ulterior ones instead.

The point I am making is not that Sartre is right or wrong in refusing the prize, or even that his reasons are valid or invalid; it is simply that hardly one man in a million is prepared to live fully up to his professed creed when so powerful an inducement as this award comes along—especially since, as he regrettably pointed out, he could have used the money to advance the organizations and movements he considers important.

When confronted by this sort of behavior—exemplifying a morality and an inner coherence we pay lip-service to but do not follow—it becomes terribly necessary for us to devalue such behavior down to our own level. This is why we on the panel were so ready to chalk up Sartre's refusal to riches, or publicity, or psychopathology, or his socialist sympathies. These things we can understand and accept.

But we cannot really understand people who act much worse, or much better, than we would in similar circumstances. For what we call our every-day decency is little more than a spiritual mediocrity that can neither sink to depths of depravity nor rise to heights of nobility.

Versatile Dolls

Dolls grabbed a giant share of the $1 billion toy market this Christmas. Dolls these days do everything but change their own diapers. They walk, talk, wink, drink, burp, flirt, sniffle, sneeze, laugh and sing. They wear wigs, blow bubbles and twist.

Harris

Literature and the $50,000 that goes with it.

I had read only a brief and unsatisfactory version of his reasons for refusing, until the New York Review of Books recently translated his full statement appearing in the French Journal, Le Monde.

Shortly before that, I had appeared on a television panel in which the participants were asked why, in our opinions, Sartre had turned down the prize. We said, variously, that (a) he didn't need the money, (b) it was a shrewd publicity stunt, (c) it was a peculiarity of Sartre, and (d) it had to do with his political sympathy for the Eastern bloc.

None of these "reasons," it turns out from his statement, was anywhere near the truth. My own guess had been no more near the mark than those of the others—for I, also, could not conceive of myself rejecting this high honor and the considerable sum attached to it.

His reasons, summarized badly, are twofold: unwillingness to be transformed into an "institution," and unwillingness to align himself with the cultural forces of either the Western or the Eastern bloc of nations.

Femininity is flowering in New York this week as the fashion press from throughout the country take a long look at what lies ahead for milady this spring and summer. Girls will be girls, the consensus appears, but they will be so more discreetly than in the summer past.

Skirts, according to some of the designers, specifically Bill Blass who designs for Maurice Rentner, and Vincent Monte Sano, are on the rise, but most lengths will not be delivered as short as they appear at the shows. Lengths are expected to vary, with no one length right for spring.

'Baby' dresses were the talk of the Avenue. Some are hand loomed knits that look like smocks with high rising bodices. Ruffles are in evidence, and some models appeared in the style with matching baby bonnets that fit snugly and tie under the chin.

The costume look that bloomed in the fall will spill into spring with dresses and matching coats no longer a novelty. Tailoring will be simple and uncomplicated, and it will be important to be thin.

The New York Couture Group's 44th annual press week will conclude today.

Ruffles and a flowered edge framed the dark beauty of a model for Countess Alexander at the New York Couture Group's semi-annual fashion show. A Striking Cotton jacket over a navy blue sheath was shown by Hannah Troy, who introduced her spring fashion collection this week in New York. Writers came away with the impression that this year's little basic black might very well be navy blue. ## Cold Feet Limit Plunge Into Icy Financial Depths

BY JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — I am about ready to plunge into the stock market.

Well, maybe not exactly plunge — but I am considering at least dabbling my toes in the coldest feet this side of Alaska.

For years I've been reading educational articles dealing with the ins and outs of investing. But I'm afraid that when I'm in I'll wish I were out.

Still, I do think I'll crack open my nest egg just enough to purchase one share of stock. Then, on all those questionnaires, instead of admitting my occupation is "housewife," I can grandly write "financier."

Reads Business Page. If I ever get rich I'll owe my wealth to the wealth of knowledge I accumulate by reading the business pages of the newspapers every day.

My favorite literature is the advice service, which I find 'Wet Clean' Term.

According to the National Institute of Drycleaning, the term 'wetclean' means essentially the same as hand wash.

When anything is 'wetcleaned,' it is washed by hand with soap or detergent in tepid water. It is usually dried by air and hand-pressed according to the fiber content of the fabric.

I am still waiting for the soothsayers to come forth with the name of the stock I am looking for one that sells for $20 a share, pays yearly dividends of $5 a month, and is guaranteed to double in value every other year.

Since this information has not yet appeared in print, my next best bet is to buy a share of Amalgamated American Telephone & Tele-Cable Catering Co., because its graph shows its future is secure as long as my daughter's voice.

On the other hand, they can hold out.

Your Problems

Hog-Callin', Not Opera Singing, Is Talent of Iowa Farm Girl

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife took a few lessons in voice before we were married (18-years ago). The truth is she can't carry a note with a co-singer.

Whenever we go to a party Isobel gets a few beers and wants to give a recital. What Isobel does best is the hog-calling bit. She was raised near Ida Grove, Iowa, and won the county hog-calling championship for three straight years. When the party gets going good everyone hollers, "Call the hogs, Isobel," but she wants to sing opera. Nobody wants opera; they want her specialty. Isobel says it isn't dignified.

Please tell her to be a sport. She thinks you're great and she'll listen to you. — Buck

Dear Buck: Since I'm an Iowa girl myself I can tell you that a good hog-caller can be proud. That "So—eecey—soeey soeey" bit is an art. C'mon, Isobel, give the folks what they want.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been laughing my head off over your cornball column for years. Certainly you've read enough from the miserable marrieds of America to know by this time that marriage is a great little institution — but not for men.

Why not level with John and Jane Q. Public and tell them the way it is? Every married man I know has that hang-dog look on his face. You can see that the joy of living has been beaten out of him.

The male animal is a roamer by nature — happier when he is unencumbered. And this is the way he was meant to live.

The female, however, needs marriage. She must have a permanent home. She needs a family to give expression to her maternal instincts. It is also better for the economics of the country if women marry because marriage and family responsibilities keep women at home — for a few years at least. Too many females are out in the business world competing with males with creates all sorts of problems.

Since you claim to be a realist, Ann, why don't you state the facts?—Male Mail

Dear Mail: So men should be single and women should be married? And just who are women supposed to marry? Each other?

When you get the formula worked out, send it on. It should make fascinating reading.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a boy who is 13 and already writing to Ann Landers for advice. I didn't think I would need you for a few more years but here I am.

My four-year-old sister is making a wreck out of me. Whenever I want to see a certain TV program Jeanette throws herself down on the floor, and kicks and screams until she gets her way.

Twice last week I had to take Jeanette with me on Saturday afternoon when I went to a friend's house to play table tennis. Today I told my mother. I'd rather not go than take my little sister. Jeanette kicked up such a fuss my mother said, "You'll go and take her with you."

Soft Detergents

Soft detergents are household products which break down readily in sewage treatment. They are based on LAS, a surface active agent which is highly degradable.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Nemecek exchanged wedding promises at 11 a.m. Saturday at St. Therese Catholic Church. Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Brian Coleman. you. I can't stand the noise. It's bad for my high blood pressure. Is this fair? What can I do? — Like Trapped

Dear Like: You should not have to take your little sister with you because your mother can't stand to have her at home. When a four-year-old rules the roost by kicking and screaming — look out. The noises Jeanette is making now are whispers compared to what will come later. Your mother needs some outside help. She has a spoiled four-year-old on her hands and allowing kids to behave this way is unfair. Such kids grow up thoroughly despised.

Today's Etiquette BY LOUISE DAVIS

AUDIENCE'S MANNERS

mannered listeners. I'm not much of a traveler, but am wondering if such things are happening everywhere. Perhaps a few of your do's and don'ts might bring some of these abusers in line.

Louise Davis Answers:

Such goings on except in an extreme emergency are unthinkable. They are definitely taboo now and in the future as well as in the past. Seat-leaving is for intermissions only. Whis- pering, talking, giggling, gum chewing or eating anything is also extremely bad manners.

All are an insult to any stage performer, also disturbing and disconcerting to those around them. You bring back a memory. When I was in my sub- teens, I was taken to hear Paderewski in Toronto, Ontario. When the great artist sat down at the piano, there was of course, complete dead silence. ## The Ailing House Wax Birch Cupboards

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: What is the best way to clean natural birch cupboards which have a gloss? I have been tempted to use one of the cleaning waxes now available, but didn't know if this would give us a good job.

A: A good quality cleaning wax, used according to manufacturer's label Directions, will give excellent results.

Q: Is there any way to raise the indentation in rubber padding that is used under carpeting, after heavy furniture has been on it for a long while? The carpeting can be restored, but what about the rubber padding?

A: I don't know of any way to "undent" the rubber padding itself, but you could fill the gap with small pieces of foam rubber cut to the proper size. How thick, or how much you'll need will require experimenting.

Q: A section of sidewalk in front of our house, leading up to our entrance, has settled on one side. How can this be made level again?

A: This requires two people for the project. Using a strong crowbar or a long four by four as a lever, pry up the settled section. While this is held up, force crushed stone or gravel and sand under it, until the level of the adjoining section is reached.

Q: A worn area in my kitchen sink was repaired with porcelain touch-up. This has worn off again. Is there any material that makes a more permanent repair?

A: Eventually, all touch-up materials wear off. However, there is now available an epoxy tub and tile finish which is highly resistant to detergents, bleaches, etc., for refinishing tubs, sinks, and other plumbing hardware and paint dealers carry this product. Follow label directions for application.

Birth Control Aid Plan Operating in New York

No Religious Disputes in View in Federally Backed Maternity Program

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP) — A maternity care program, backed by federal funds and including free birth control aid in low-income neighborhoods, is operating here without any signs of religious friction.

The situation is seen by some specialists in the field as indicating increased interfaith understanding on approaches to birth control.

"Areas of agreement are broadening all over the country," a spokesman for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America said Thursday. "The old-fashioned struggles have become the exception."

Federal Grant
The city health department disclosed this week that through a federal grant of $1.4 million it has launched five maternity-care clinics in poorer sections, with four others scheduled to be opened soon.

Along with a comprehensive program of pre-natal care, the clinics offer birth control materials and advice. Health Commissioner George James said.

There was no immediate comment on the program from the New York archdiocese of the Roman Catholic Church, which has long condemned artificial means of birth control. New York City's population is 45 per cent Catholic.

However, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. Frawley, director of Catholic hospitals in the archdiocese, said he thought "the program in its broad aspects is most acceptable."

Free to Act
"Families should be free to act in accordance with their conscience and convictions," he said.

Two Catholic hospitals, St. Vincent's in Manhattan and St. Catherine's in Brooklyn, are supervising two of the program's clinics. Both offer instruction on the rhythm method of birth control, which is acceptable to the Roman Catholic Church.

At the other clinics mothers may obtain birth control pills, or contraceptive devices, Commissioner James said.

"Our major aim is to offer health services to women living in areas of high maternal and infant mortality," he said.

The areas are predominantly Negro, with high birth rates. During former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration, a proposed federal program to promote birth control aid in impoverished foreign countries met sharp Roman Catholic objections.

However, Msgr. Frawley said that move was not comparable to the program here, since it had connotations of virtually imposing artificial contraceptive means on a largely illiterate people.

No Objections
"As long as there is no compulsion, as long as there is freedom for people to plan according to their own consciences and principles, there is no objection," he said.

Inter-church controversies have arisen repeatedly over public policy regarding birth control. Most major Protestant and Jewish bodies condone artificial contraception.

Public health services in an increasing number of communities have started providing family planning clinics or referral services, the Planned Parenthood Federation said.

In 27 states, one or more cities now offer such aid, a spokesman said, adding "Except in rare instances, these projects don't cause the controversial storms which used to occur."

When you know all the tricks, you can create a guess to take the place of a sure thing. Howard Schenken, who won a berth on the American team for the seventh time in the Team Trials held last November, used one of the oldest tricks in the game to defeat an "unbeatable" slam.

Holy Name Event Set Sunday at Darboy

DARBOY — Holy Name Society members of Holy Angels Catholic Church will receive communion at the 8 a.m. high mass Sunday.

A breakfast and meeting will follow in the school hall. The Rev. David Belongea, O.F.M., Cap., will speak on missionary work in Nicaragua.

Schenken got off to a good start by leading a heart against the ambitious slam bid by Oswald Jacoby and Barry Crane. Any other lead would have simplified declarer's task. Jacoby decided to play a low heart from dummy in the hope that the opening lead was from the king of hearts. Most experts tend to lead aggressively against a slam contract, and no other play looked better than the heart finesse.

East took the first trick with the king of hearts and returned a spade, forcing declarer to ruff. Now the slam was home if declarer just played it normally.

Finesses Work
The normal play is to lead a diamond to the ace and return a diamond for a finesse with the jack. South then draws the last trump with the king. South next leads a low club to finesse with dummy's jack. This finesse also works, and South runs his hearts and trumps, after which he takes the rest of the clubs.

It was all going to work, but a funny thing happened to Jacoby on his way to six diamonds. On the first round of trumps Schenken played the ten of diamonds from the West hand. This made it seem likely that Schenken had started with the doubleton queen-ten of diamonds. Jacoby knew that Schenken might be trying to flim-flam him but it was quite possible that the play of the ten was forced.

After much thought, Jacoby decided to play the king on the second round of trumps instead of finessing with the jack. The queen of trumps failed to fall, and the slam was doomed to defeat.

Remember this type of play the next time you have a doubleton ten or nine of trumps. If you play your high card on the first round of trumps you may talk declarer out of a finesse that would work if he took it.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold S None H Q J 6 D K J 7 6 3 2 C A 9 8 7. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one diamond. This is a borderline hand, and some experts would recommend a pass instead of a bid. The opening bid would be better if you had the ten of diamonds instead of one of the low cards, but you can't always have just what you want.

Limber Figure

Do you grunt and groan when have the same limbering effects you pick something up from the on the joints as sports or formal floor? Do you huff and puff exercise.

As a result, much mobility is lost, and with it goes the grace of the figure. A figure can be ideal and appear stocky, if it is graceless. That being so, think how the plump or stringy figure appears when it moves awkwardly.

It follows that a good New Year's resolution would be to limber up and stay limbered. Here's the routine that turns the trick:

1. Stand tall, stretch arms overhead, and sway from side to side.
  2. Drop head back; slowly roll it from shoulder to shoulder.
  3. Cross wrists, place fingertips on shoulders, swing arms up to full extension, and return to starting position.
  4. Swing right leg forward and backward — high as possible; swing left leg. 5. Repeat each part 10 times before going on to the next. And limber you'll be!

Ranking state and municipal officials from 10 Fox Valley communities will meet here Jan. 25 for a daylong workshop on governmental matters.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell, a member of the board of trustees of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, is making arrangements for the meetings to be held at the Conway Hotel.

Other valley cities have been host to similar meetings, Mitchell said, and it is now Appleton's turn.

Mayors, managers, city attorneys, planners and engineers will attend from Appleton, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Green Bay, Two Rivers, Sturgeon Bay and Marinette.

State senators and assemblymen representing the various communities also will be invited to attend, Mitchell said, along with members of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Committee.

Mitchell said during the morning session, starting at 9:30 a.m., officials will discuss annexation laws and procedures, aids available to local governments, the Urban Problems Bill, and the recent Supreme Court decision on county board reorganization.

In the afternoon governmental leaders will discuss educational problems and school needs with the Northeastern Wisconsin group.

An engineering study into the advisability of filling in the ravine below the Pacific Street bridge has been authorized by the city council.

Ald. John Ayers (12th) requested the study after saying it would permanently end bridge maintenance.

However, Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) pointed out that if the project were undertaken, Belaire Park would no longer have an extension north of the bridge.

The park is comprised of 25 acres, a good portion of it located past the span under which there is a service road and walking paths.

The council also: —Referred back to committee for the second time a request to move a house from 215 E. Fremont St. to 536 E. South River St.

$15 Million in Construction
Shatters Appleton Record

City Expects to Regain Title of 'Building Capital' of Fox Valley

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton topped the $15 million mark in new construction during 1964, shattering all previous building records.

Building Inspector Charles Magnette, in the process of preparing his annual report for the city council, said today he issued permits for $15,046,494 in new buildings last year.

Not included in the total are the costs of heating, plumbing and electrical installations. Appleton's previous all-time construction high was $12,013,991 in 1963.

'Building Capital' It is expected that when annual building reports of other communities are in, Appleton will again stake its claim as the "building capital" of the Fox Valley region.

Magnette said December building activity enabled Appleton to surpass the $15 million figure.

Two Apartments During December, permits were issued for building projects amounting to $359,390, including two eight-unit apartment buildings costing $136,000.

Work also was started on a $74,000 office building on Wisconsin Avenue and a $45,000 drugstore on the city's south side.

More than 4,000 workers will be called on about 40,000 families in the Fox Valley area. The drive, to be completed in about a week, is the climax of more than six months of organization work.

An open house-rally will be held at Xavier High School commons in Appleton from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday at which volunteer workers will get final instructions and materials. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Principal aim of the expansion and remodeling project is to provide greatly increased diagnostic and treatment facilities for the Fox Valley area. Construction work started last June and will be completed in 1967. The original hospital building, erected in 1900, will be razed and replaced. Complete renovation of the main building constructed in 1924 will provide air conditioning throughout, private lavatories, improved lighting and modernization of many hospital services. New wings are being added to the east and south.

Expand Services Another 100 beds will be added, bringing total bed capacity to 300, but the main goal is to expand overloaded existing services, such as the psychiatric section, and provide space and equipment for many diagnostic and treatment procedures.

Neenah Woman's
$7,000 Diamond
Bracelet Found

NEENAH — A $7,000 diamond bracelet belonging to a Neenah woman and missing since September, 1963, has been found and is being held by police pending an investigation.

Mrs. Ruth Gilbert, 418 Green St., reported the keepsake missing Sept. 13, 1963. It was recovered when it recently was taken to a jeweler for appraisal.

The chain of events leading to the recovery of the bracelet are not complete, police said. Whereabouts of the jewelry has been traced back to late November or early December of 1963. The trail was picked up in a local tavern where the bracelet was sold for $1, police said.

The new possessor of the bracelet took it home and gave it to his landlady. She left it lying on a kitchen table for three or four days before deciding to give it to her daughter for a Christmas present.

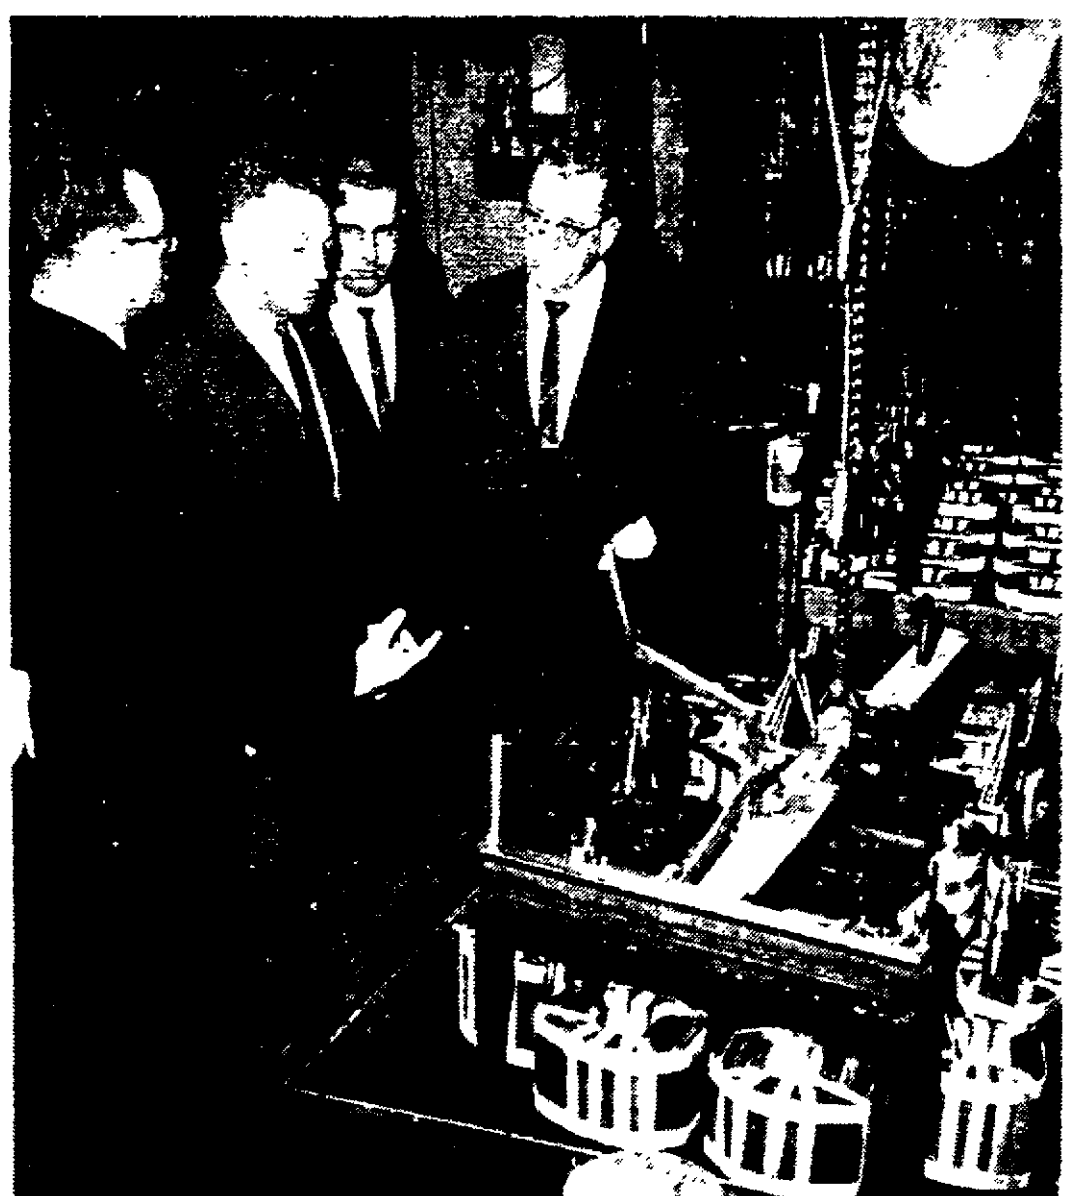

The daughter wore the bracelet for a year, on different occasions, until a friend told her the bracelet appeared to be valuable. On the friend's recommendation the bracelet was taken to a jeweler for appraisal. Appleton police were notified of the bracelet and they in turn notified Neenah police when it was turned in to an Appleton store.
